JAPS RESUME DRIVE ALONG MALAY COAST

Reach Section 60 Miles From Singapore In Spite of Stiff Resistance.

BIG TEST APPROACHES

Japanese Air Raiders Make Indiscriminate Bombing Of Fortress City.

(By Associated Press)

SINGAPORE — Japanese patrols and landing parties, swarming along a 30-mile long west coastal belt which reached to within 60 miles of Singapore island, were putting heavy pressure upon the defenders, including newly arrived Australians, today while their air force engaged in what the British called an indiscriminate bombing of this fortress city.

Despite the courageous stand of Australians rushed to the west coast to stem infiltration tactics, today's communique said the Japanese were very active along the entire coastal front from the Muar river, 90 miles north of this island, to Batu Pahat, barely 60 miles away.

On the east coast, too, Japanese patrols, penetrating nearer their objective, were reported and to have reached th Endau area, 75 miles from Johore Strait, the last moat defending this fortified island.

The Australian troops thrown into the battle of Singapore were reported to have beaten back two new Japanese frontal attacks, but the danger of further enemy infiltrations along the coast threatened to complicate the task of stabilizing battlelines which for six weeks have been moving slowly southward.

Japanese air raiders, meanwhile, returned in force to the attack on Singapore, scattering bombs over the city in the face of furious anti-aircraft fire. Some damage was done to buildings but early reports said casualties were comparatively few.

(In London an Australian source declared that inadequate air power was adding to the gravity of the situation in Malaya and said the final test of Singapore's defenses could be expected soon.

Colleges Speed Courses, Give Youths Chance To Get Education Before Draft Takes Them

(By Associated Press)

Ohio's high school graduates, debating whether to attend college in view of the draft, may now graduate from college at the end of three years, and in most cases before they reach draft age.

By eliminating summer vacations and substituting a third semester, colleges have reduced the time it takes to get a degree to 32 to 36 months.

In most colleges adopting the three-year plan a student may begin studies next month and graduate in September, 1944; or may enter in June this year and graduate in January, 1945.

The majority of high school students under this schedule could graduate from college before their 20th birthday; the others could reach 20 so near their graduation that they would stand a good chance of being deferred until graduation.

Oberlin, an example of a college adopting the plan, substituted three semesters of 16 weeks each instead of the two previous semesters separated by summer vacation. Christmas and Easter vacations were reduced to one week.

The first term closes May 26, the summer term opens June 8, and the fall term begins Oct. 7. Other colleges telescoped their scheduled in nearly the same manner.

At Ohio Wesleyan university a student may graduate at the end of 31½ months of actual class work, and specially qualified students may take extra hours to graduate

CITY'S SCHOOLS RAPIDLY FORM DEFENSE UNITS

Some Have Air Raid Drills, First Aid Squads Set Up In Each Building.

Mansfield schools are rapidly organizing civilian defense units and some of them are already conducting air raid drills, Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller told the board of education at its meeting last night.

Fire, safety, and traffic squads under the direction of teachers and janitors are being set up in each building while first-aid groups are being organized at each of the schools with a teacher who has had first-aid training in charge.

The superintendent said he had sent instructions in air raid drills to principals and teachers in all of the schools, urging them to begin instructing pupils immediately in the steps they must take in the event of an air raid on the city.

"It may be assumed by some individuals that the area within which we reside may not be susceptible to bombing activities," Supt. Miller said in his letter to principals. "It is our sincere hope that this assumption may always remain true. One cannot, however, always build lasting hopes, permanent safety, and contented living conditions on mere assumptions.

"The best defense for any disaster is preparedness, even though the individual may never be called upon to use his skill or his ability achieved by preparedness in an actual disaster," he continued. "There may be found in any type of preparedness, the basic elements of education because education itself, fundamentally, is preparedness for the future."

Supt. Miller said the activities of the fire, safety, and traffic squads in the schools will include periodic inspections of the buildings, safety regulations, and traffic rules for the protection of pupils.

Teachers were asked to join classes in first-aid which are be-

Getting Jump On Deadline For Income Tax

One of the hundreds of Mansfielders getting the jump on the income tax deadline is city busdriver Robert J. Arras of 24 Dunbilt court, shown at right filing his income tax return today. Deputy collector of Internal Revenue Charles S. Mosey, left, helps by doing a part of the "paper work," as Arras answers his questions. Depending upon the type of return to be filed, the time spent in calculating and determining the amount of tax to be paid varies from two or three minutes in some cases, up to a half-hour in others. Between 1,600 and 2,000 Mansfielders have filed returns to date. The deadline is March 15.

RUSH TO FILE INCOME TAXES

2,000 Mansfielders Remember Pearl Harbor and Pay Levies Early.

Mansfielders are remembering Pearl Harbor.

At least they are filing their income tax returns with greater willingness and alacrity than in any previous year.

Maybe they are also taking to heart U. S. treasury warnings that taxes this year are going to be steep and that there will be no fooling in collecting them.

This was evident today as internal revenue officials at the Mansfield postoffice estimated that between 1,600 and 2,000 persons have filed tax blanks since Jan. 1 with an estimated 80 to 100 persons being helped file returns daily.

"Bring all the information you have at hand," said one official and it will make things a lot

REPORT SALE OF BEER UP IN 1941

56 Million Barrels Is Gain of 9.2 Per Cent Over Year Before.

CHICAGO—(INS)—The American public drank more beer in 1941 than the year before, the United States Brewers association convention was told today by its secretary, C. D. Williams.

With the December consumption estimated, total beer sales for 1941 reached 56,365,000 barrels, Williams said. This was an increase of 9.2 per cent over 1940.

NEW TIME FEB. 9

FDR Signs Bill Putting U. S. On Daylight Saving.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt today signed legislation placing the entire nation on daylight savings time, effective at 2 a. m., Monday, Feb. 9.

The statute, which placed clocks one hour ahead, will continue in effect for the duration of the war and for not more than six months thereafter. It can be nullified in the meantime by congress, however.

The purpose is to achieve greater efficiency in this country's industrial war effort.

William S. Knudsen, in his capacity as director general of the office of production management prior to passage of the bill, reported to Mr. Roosevelt that nationwide daylight saving time would save an estimated 500,000 kilowatt hours of power annually.

CHICAGO —(INS)— A warning that Americans may have to submit to rationing of clothing in the near future was left today with the 28th annual convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers. W. O. Derby, retail counsellor of the association, told the delegates.

"It is quite likely that in the United States, in a short time, a man who wants to buy a suit, will have to prove that he needs one."

BOARD HEARS NELSON TODAY

Expect War Production Head To Outline New Program At First Meeting.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the new war production board, was expected to present an outline of his aggressive plans for remodeling the administration of the war production effort late today, at the board's first meeting.

The nine-member board is made up of the members of the supply priorities and allocations board which it replaces, but it does not share with Nelson and the sweeping powers over labor, industry and governmental agencies vested in the chairman by President Roosevelt's executive order of last Friday.

Nelson, deep in his reorganization plans, continued to work at an exhausting pace. Sources close to him said that the Office of Production Management probably would be unrecognizable when he finished, and that even its name might disappear.

It was learned that Nelson visited late yesterday with Sidney Hillman, in the hotel room where Hillman was confined with a cold. —What will become of Hillman's labor division?

Hillman's status, as associate director general of OPM, has been hazy since the director general, William S. Knudsen, was transferred to the war department with lieutenant-general's rank as the army's director of production. This cleared the way for one-man production control under Nelson, and it apparently left up to the latter the decision on where to place Hillman's labor division.

Some officials contended that Hillman's organization would continue in charge of all labor matters except disputes, which are handled by the war labor board headed by William H. Davis.

WIN FARM HONOR

Five Get Master Title at O. S. U. Farmers' Week Program.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Five Ohio farmers will be honored with the title of master farmers in special ceremonies on the Farmers' week program at Ohio State university, Jan. 27, it was announced today.

They are Roy B. Fultz, Jeffersonville, Fayette county; E. E. Spahr, Findlay, Hancock county; Howard J. Ziegler, Clyde, Seneca county; Russell E. Rice, Wooster, Wayne county, and C. L. Israel, Beloit, Columbiana county.

COUNTY'S TIRE QUOTA REDUCED FOR FEBRUARY

Only 49 Casings Alloted to Passenger Cars; Trucks Will Get 79.

Mansfield area motorists, already hard-pressed by the government's tire rationing program to conserve rubber, will find it even more difficult to get tires in the coming months.

A sharply reduced February quota for Richland county of 49 tires and 41 tubes for passenger cars, and 79 tires and 137 tubes for all types of trucks was announce dtoday by Courtney Burton, executive director of the state defense council.

The January quota was 51 passenger car tires and 41 tubes.

Truck drivers will find that although their tire quota has been cut from 99 in January to 79 for February that tubes have increased from 119 to 137.

Allotments for the entire state showed a 19 per cent drop below the January quota. Ohio will get 4,039 auto tires, and 7,965 truck tires next month. Passenger cars have been allocated 3,397 new tire tubes while trucks will receive 13,658.

Meanwhile, Councilman George C. Kyle said that he was investigating the possibility of introducing a new ordinance in which heavier fines would be assessed against persons caught for tire thefts.

Lorain's city council last night adopted an ordinance making the maximum fine for theft of auto tires $999.99 and imprisonment up to 11 months and 29 days.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Mansfield civilian defense chairman, recently stated that he would give all tire thieves the maximum penalty because of the need for tires for defense work.

HE'S CONFIDENT

Churchill Tells Commons of Plan For War Debate.

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, confronting a restive house of commons, informed its members today that he shared their anxiety about operations in the Pacific but told them he had "growing confidence" in eventual victory there.

Announcing that a three-day debate would be held soon on the war situation, the prime minister also showed evidence of equal confidence in his personal strength.

Addressing parliament for the first time since his return from the historic conferences in Washington and Ottawa, the prime minister offered to call for a vote of confidence if the debate should disclose any challenge to his government.

CRASH KILLS 3

Bomber Falls Shortly After Taking Off From McChord Field.

TACOMA (INS)—Three army fliers were dead today, victims of a crash of a medium bomber from McChord Field, Col. A. F. Herold, commander of the field, announced.

The plane crashed about a mile north of the air base, shortly after taking off from McChord Field and burst into flames which made rescue attempts impossible. Names of those who lost their lives were withheld.

NURSES LEAVE

72 Meet Physicians To Embark For Foreign Service.

CLEVELAND —(INS)—Seventy-two Cleveland nurses of United States Army Base Hospital No. 4, Lakeside unit, were expected in New York today where they were to meet 54 Cleveland physicians of the Lakeside unit and embark for foreign service.

It was assumed by friends of the nurses that the group would be the first such unit in the United States to see foreign service, as it was in the last war.

Destroy Enemy Warship, Leave Tanker Aflame

Three Planes Shot Down As Japanese Renew Onslaught On Luzon Island; Attack On Another Ship Spurs Sub Hunt Off U. S. Coast.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The war department said today American bombers sunk a Japanese cruiser and scored direct hits on a tanker, leaving the latter in flames 100 miles off Jolo in the southern Philippines.

Three enemy airplanes were shot down as the Japanese renewed their attack on General Douglas MacArthur's forces on Batan peninsula on the Island of Luzon, the department's communique also said.

At the same time, the first indication for many days that the Japanese were still opposed by American forces on the Island of Mindanao came in a report from MacArthur that sharp fighting was in progress between Philippine troops and a Japanese force about 35 miles north of Davao, which is on the southern end of Mindanao.

The attack on the Japanese cruiser and tanker was carried out by six army bombers.

Jolo, an island of the Sulu group, lies between Mindanao and North Borneo.

Word of the successful bomber attack on a Japanese cruiser was received as depth bombs made Atlantic coastal waters an unhealthy hunting ground for Axis submarine raiders, although for the present the navy was keeping mum on the subject of enemy mortality.

Despite the character of the enemy effort, one informed source remarked that the known results to date were likely to fall short of Axis expectations.

The latest submarine attack to be announced was not as successful as its three predecessors, for the raider failed to make the kill. He torpedoed and shelled the 8,206-ton Malay yesterday, but she managed to stay afloat and limped into port, with a casualty list of one killed and four missing out of a crew of 34.

Like the three ships which torpedoes have sunk since last Wednesday, the Malay was a tanker but there was no disposition here to draw conclusions on that account. While it is true that tankers have been a favorite target, it is also true that they are normally more numerous in Atlantic coast shipping lanes because of the east's heavy dependence on tanker-borne petroleum supplies.

Nevertheless, as a precautionary measure the government recommended to the big oil companies that they increase the use of railroad tank cars for transporting their products to both coasts. The request noted that, beside the tankers torpedoed in east and west coast runs, others had been taken out of regular service for military duty.

Petroleum likewise was a major consideration in another of last night's moves United States warplanes were dispatched to the Dutch islands of Aruba and Curacao, off the coast of Venezuela, to cooperate with the forces of the Netherlands government in protecting "those vitally important oil centers."

The aerial reinforcements were insurance against a surprise gunfire or demolition party attack on the islands by some enemy underseas raider.

Sensational as have been the Axis submarine operations in Atlantic coastal waters, the capital was not losing sight of the main chance in the battle of the Atlantic—the supply line to Britain. The enemy submarines sent to prey on American coastal shipping mean so many less to attack the Britain-bound convoys laden with the important materials of war.

As a phase of the conflict so

TIGHTENS: Russians Narrow Line Around 100,000 Germans

(By Associated Press)

Russia's armies, executing a gigantic crack-the-whip movement, were reported to have narrowed further the "escape corridor" of 100,000 German troops at Mozhaisk today and smashed Adolf Hitler's winter defense line at two important points.

The battle for Kharkov, Russia's "Pittsburgh" in the Ukraine, also was reported entering a decisive phase.

Soviet dispatches said Red army troops, supported by hard-riding Don Cossack cavalrymen, had scored gains on both flanks of the Mozhaisk hold-out garrison, 57 miles west of Moscow.

Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said Mozhaisk was burning and that hand-to-hand fighting was raging in the streets.

Soviet forces stormed across the Lama river 75 miles north of Moscow, sharpening the pressure above Mozhaisk, while other Russian forces intercepted the road to Warsaw 140 miles southwest of Moscow, it was reported.

Front-line dispatches said the

SHOWDOWN: Vital Decision Approaches At Rio Conference

(By Associated Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO—Chile drafted a proposal today calling for a conference of the general staffs of fighting forces of all the American nations, as the Pan American conference neared its crucial decision on a joint severance of relations with the Axis.

The proposal on severing relations was expected to reach the full defense committee late today, and possibly the plenary session of the conference tomorrow.

As six subcommittees began studying dozens of resolutions submitted earlier, Sumner Wells of the American delegation and Brazilian Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha closeted themselves in the Itamaraty palace offices of Aranha. Shortly afterward they called the delegates of Venezuela and Columbia, who with Mexico, sponsored the resolution calling for a break.

Argentina and Chile have been the lone holdouts against the break, agreed to by the 19 other American republics.

German and Italian attempts to torpedo the Pan American conference by thinly-veiled threats aimed at the South American nations appeared to have backfired today and conference leaders moved for a swift showdown on

13 Die As Fire Sweeps 5-Story Apartment House

(By United Press)

LYNN, Mass. — (U.P.) — At least 13 persons were killed early today and Fire Chief Joseph E. Scanlon estimated that five to eight more were missing in a fire that destroyed a five-story apartment building in the center of the Lynn business district.

More than 25 were injured, most of them by leaping from windows into the street. One of the injured was Chief John Adams of the Marble-Head fire department who fell from the roof to a fire escape several floors below.

When firemen arrived, they found many tenants clinging to window ledges at the back of the building and calling for help. Some were unable to hold on until nets were spread and fell.

Fire apparatus from six towns and cities subdued the flames after 2½ hours. The third and fourth floors collapsed and the walls were in imminent danger of falling, and firemen had to cautiously conduct their search for the bodies of victims.

GAS CEILING?

Henderson Says U. S. Will Act To Keep Price Down.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The government will set ceiling prices on petroleum products and gasoline at service stations and other retail outlets if prices rise above last Nov. 7 levels, Price Administrator Leon Henderson said today.

In letters to all petroleum producers, refiners and marketers, Henderson said that prices prevailing on Nov. 7 "shall be considered maximum prices." Crude oil prices, he added, however, should be those in effect last Oct. 1.

Prices mentioned specifically by Henderson are those charged for cargo, harbor, barge, refinery, terminal, tank car and wagon petroleum products. Crude petroleum prices mentioned were those in the field, at wells, gathering points, tank farms and terminals.

Brings Heartening Message Of How Deaf Child Finds Success

By LAWRENCE MURPHY

A heartening, helpful message, outlining how deaf children may rise above their handicap to become normal, happy citizens in spite of deafness, was left today with more than a score of Mansfield mothers, whose children suffer from a lack of normal hearing.

The speaker was one who knows. She is Mrs. Frank Lamberton, mother of totally deaf Charlotte Lamberton, who has risen above her affliction to become one of the foremost dancers in the nation and a perfectly normal citizen. Mrs. Lamberton spoke before 24 mothers of deaf children yesterday at West First street school while her deaf, dancing, daughter chatted gaily with the children.

Don't grieve, educate them. . . . Make them as normal as possible," said Mrs. Lambert, repeating what famous ear specialists had told her from New York to California.

Above all, she said that pity, and especially self-pity for such children should not be shown. "That is the tragedy of the deaf . . . self pity. Often the deaf child is smarter than the normal one."

In the rear of the brightly decorated little schoolroom two young mothers in the audience wept silently as Mrs. Lamberton told of her own heartaches over her two deaf children before get-

GEN. JOHNSON: New Rift Threatens Labor Settlement

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Donald Nelson is making speed in setting up the only kind of organization with which he can ever approach his colossal job. That, however, is going to take time.

He has to put representatives of all the supply departments of industry in intimate and continuous contact with all demand departments — the great armament procuring bureaus — literally marry them "for the duration." Such representatives of industry have yet to be chosen and that, of itself, is no quick or easy task.

Gen. Johnson.

He can move with much greater speed in selecting the representatives of the producing bureaus, and making them compose their conflicts before presenting their combined problems to the industrial representatives. Nelson is doing that with great speed by means of a munitions board composed of representatives of army, navy, lease-lend and maritime commission.

Supporting Nelson's final decision on who shall have what, the priorities, price-fixing, conservation and other departments of government are there (either through direct control by Nelson, or by the kind of cooperation we should now expect to have) to make his decisions immediately effective.

There is nothing new in all this. Substantially it is the plan that worked successfully in the 1918 war industries board, modified as suggested by Baruch at the time the Rosenman plan (SPAB and OPM was chosen in its place.

But the country must remember this. Considerable time and a vigorous shaking-down process are necessary before we can clear away the red tape and the dead wood of such a mountain of old mistakes and organize the new overhead and get it working.

In the meantime, as nearly always happens after one of the president's bold strokes of organization and appointment, Nelson is getting a highly favorable press. He is pictured as a sort of silent genius or giant who can move into this kind of mess, wave a wand and reduce chaos to order in a twinkling. That is bad—for Nelson.

I ought to know. I went through it all in NRA and elsewhere. From those experiences, I was able to say to the press on the day I took office:

"It will all be red-fire and rockets at the beginning and dead cats and tom-toms at the end."

The people ask "Who is this fellow Nelson anyway?" And it is the business of the press to accommodate them. In this way there is built up a myth about a man that no mere human being could make come true.

Nelson is a good, careful common-sense administrator. He has been kicked around long enough in the Washington delirium since the war began and earlier to know what it is all about. He has a good enough sense of organization to know what is needed. He asked for it and got it.

He starts off with pretty nearly universal good will and he can call for advice and assistance from competetnt men either in or out of government. I don't know that more we could ask just now—and expect to get it.

It all boils down now to Nelson. If he proves competient, tactful and reasonable, his title or rank will neither help nor hinder him. He has what is many many times more important then either—single and direct responsibility, unquestionable authority. That is all that counts in this kind of a job at a crisis.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking for Myself.

I HAVE noticed, with great satisfaction, a general cooling off among the screwballs of Broadway and environs since the start of the war.

Kilgallen

The most determined "characters" along the midnight beat have subsided since Dec. 7. Lenore Lemmon is around and about, but with the sedate manner of the elder Mrs. Vanderbilt. Patricia (Honeychile) Wilder hasn't hit a gnat, let alone a rival, and there hasn't been a good night club fracas since Pearl Harbor.

I suppose even the most frivolous among us has done a certain amount of sobering up to realization that this country has a lot of buckling down to do. Anyway, when the dizzy cafe set can't come through with one page one story in six weeks, night life has really settled down to the grim business of la guerre.

I think one of the most remarkable things about Joseph Schildkraut's remarkable performance in "Clash By Night" is the fact that he is playing an American for the first time since he came to America in 1910, and he is playing it so well that not one critic even bothered to comment on it. I have always suspected Hollywood of being afraid to cast Mr. Schildkraut as anything but a dead Frenchman, a live Austrian, a Belgian, Italian, or Greek. The cinema apparently never imagined Mr. Schildkraut in the part of a North Dakota farmer or an Illinois statesman; but from this point on I imagine he will have no trouble slipping into Yankee roles.

Show people are, of course, steeped to the hilt in superstition, and sometimes I look upon them and their careers and wonder if perhaps they haven't got something there. At the moment I think there is a test case in a young girl named Imogen Carpenter, and I am watching her to see what part luck plays in her career.

She is a pretty girl who sings, and not long age she moved into the Gorham hotel because people in the theater told her it was lucky for singers. Look, they said, at Mary Martin. She used to live there. What more pat Cinderella story could you want than hers?

So Imogen moved into the Gorham, just a few floors over the apartment Mary Martin had a couple of years ago. No sooner had she hung her dresses in the closet than the Pierre hotel signed her for her biggest job in the Cafe Pierre—and two weeks later she was promoted to the Cotillion Room. Now she's talking with two producers about a spot in a musical.

A trend that bothers me is the recent fashion for long and frequently inverted book titles. It started, as far as my recollection goes, with "Valiant Is the Word For Carrie," and has been continued with such works as "Quietly My Captain Waits," "Black Is My True Love's Hair" and "Broad and Alien Is the World." I suppose it's artistic, even poetic, but I have an impish impulse to toss such intricately titled books from my chaise longue unopened. Corny is the word for this vogue.

I am among the Marx Brothers fans rooting for Chico as he makes his debut as an orchestra leader at the Flatbush theater. It's a little saddening to know that when he sits down at the piano he won't be interrupted by Harpo's lunacies or Groucho's dialogue, but I look for Chico to startle the musical world as a bandleader. He may not be handsome or smooth or even swingy, but he has other virtues.

His hat, for instance. You'll go a long way before you find another baton-waver with a lid like that. I won't be surprised if Chico starts a new fashion in maestri—if the bandleader of tomorrow is a man who wears a shabby, slightly peaked, disreputable cap, and who can chase a comely miss up the orchestra aisle in less time than it takes to say "Swing and sway with Sammy Kaye."

CUT IN CRASH

Mansfielder Hurt as Car Skids Into Utility Pole.

Nick Nagle, jr., 55 Granite street, suffered cuts and bruises early yesterday when his auto crashed into a utility pole on West Fourth street and overturned.

Nagle told police that he was entering Fourth street from West Park drive and attempted to apply the brakes. The car skidded across the intersection and crashed against the pole.

TEACHERS MAKE NEW PLEA FOR PAY INCREASE

Petition Signed By 88 of 200 Instructors Presented at Board Meeting.

Mansfield teachers renewed their request for pay raises last night in a petition submitted to the board of education. The paper was signed by 88 of the approximately 200 teachers in the city school system.

Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller, who received the petition before the board meeting, read it to the members. It was tabled after brief discussion. None of the teachers appeared at the meeting.

Harold W. Arlin, president of the board, suggested, however, that Supt. Miller tell the City Teachers association that the request "will be considered further and action will be taken as soon as conditions warrant it." He offered no other comment.

The petition asked the board to "immediately grant an increase in salaries commensurate with the rising costs of living."

The petition stated further that, "We feel that teachers should have wages comparable to those paid other public employes . . ."

It pointed out that money was spent during the past year to prepare practice athletic fields, to build a gymnasium and auditorium at the Hedges school and to meet "other unexpected bills," giving evidence that the board had funds available.

The finance committee of the teachers' association first went before the board in December to ask for pay increases. The committee was told then by the board that sufficient funds for raises were not available bu the request would be considered as soon as there was more money in sight.

At a panel discussion of the salary question last week a teacher suggested an increase in the city tax rate as a means of providing more funds for salaries.

Later, Miss Elizabeth Hainer, head of the City Teachers' association, said the organization had no desire to increase taxes but believed that the board could find the necessary funds for increases by "a more efficient handling and distribution of available funds."

HIRES TEACHER

Board of Education Replaces Home Economics Mentor.

The Mansfield board of education last night accepted the resignation of one teacher, hired one to take her place, and granted a leave-of-absence to another instructor.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Gracy, home economics teacher at John Simpson Junior high school, resigned to be married. Her resignation is effective Wednesday.

Employed to replace her was Miss Virginia Norris of Westerville. Educated at Otterbein college and Ohio State university, Miss Norris has had three years teaching experience in Ohio and for the past two years has been at the Crandon Institute of Home Economics at Montevideo, South America.

The board granted A. H. Mueller, teacher at the John Simpson Junior high school, a leave-of-absence for the second semester to permit him to take advanced work in college. No one was employed to replace him.

EMPLOYMENT OFF 5 PER CENT

Figures for December Show Drop, Still Exceed Previous Year.

Slipping five per cent under the figure for the previous month, industrial employment in Mansfield in December stood at 11,159, the monthly statistical report of the Chamber of Commerce showed today.

Of that figure, 34 per cent, or 3,794 were engaged in defense work, according to John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Although the December total was 551 under November and 911 under October, it was 7.6 higher than the 10,300 figure of December, 1940.

New car sales in the county totaled 157 in December, 34 more than in November but 129 less than December, 1940. Bank clearings totaled $11,422,865, for a 12 per cent gain over November and 23.6 increase over December, 1940. Building permits totaled $101,150, down 36 per cent from November but up 73 per cent over December a year ago.

Bus passengers in the month totaled 198,702, up 27,000 from November; postal receipts were $44,530, as against $29,781 in November; mercantile employment, representing the usual Christmas increase, stood at 2,170, up 4.7 per cent over November; county sales tax stood at $69,152, up 20 per cent over November but down 10 per cent from December, 1940; carloadings totaled 4,016 up very slightly over November and 8 per cent over the previous December; and the Richland county relief case load totaled 319, as against 289 in November and 479 in December, 1940.

ENTERS PLEA ON CUTTING CHARGE

Rufus Dawson Pleads Innocent In Municipal Court Hearing.

Rufus Dawson, 553 Lily street, pleaded innocent when arraigned in municipal court this morning on a charge of cutting with intent to wound. He waived examination and was bound over to the Richland county grand jury on $1,000 bond.

Dawson was arrested in connection with a fight at a North Diamond street club Jan. 9 in which he was allegedly shot twice by Lawrence Newsome, proprietor. Police said Newsome, who charges that Dawson attacked him with a knife, will be arraigned on charges of shooting with intent to kill as soon as he recovers sufficiently from knife wounds received in the fight.

PLAN CAROLE LOMBARD RITES AS AIR CRASH PROBE OPENS

(By International News Service)

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Haggard and worn, eyes red from sleepless nights, Clark Gable today prepared to accompany the body of his beauteous wife, Carole Lombard, home to Hollywood for funeral services and burial in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

Originally scheduled to leave last night, the funeral party was delayed for a full day for inquests into the death of Miss Lombard's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Knight Peters, and Otto Winkler, studio publicist, who also lost their lives, along with 19 others, in the fiery crash of a T.W.A. airliner on Double or Nothing peak near Las Vegas last Friday night.

All but three of the 22 broken bodies, burned almost beyond recognition, had been brought down from the snow-covered peak when one of the horses used to pack the remains of the victims down the precipitous slopes slipped and broke a leg.

Double funeral services were expected to be held either tomorrow or Friday for Miss Lombard and her mother.

Inquests into the deaths of the 19 others, including 15 officers and men who were returning to west coast bases of the army ferrying command, were expected to be completed tomorrow.

As soon as identification has been established their bodies will be returned to their homes or to places designated by relatives.

Army, civil aeronautics authority and investigators of the House of Representatives Air disasters committee launched a three-way inquiry into the fatal crash. It was generally believed that engine trouble was responsible for the disaster.

Gable, plainly showing the effects of the ordeal which he has been through since Friday night when he received word that his wife was killed in the airliner crash, emerged from seclusion for the first time yesterday when he motored with friends to the foot of Double or Nothing mountain.

When he returned to Las Vegas he made a special request to the men who had struggled through snow and up steep slopes to the crash scene. He asked them to look among the charred wreckage of the plane for the jewelry Miss Lombard was wearing.

He was especially anxious to recover a gold "V" for victory pin and the wedding ring that united them in marriage.

THIEVES LOSE 34 CENTS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(U.P.)— It cost a pair of thieves 34 cents to loot an Atlantic City apartment. James Stockman, owner of the apartment, caught the two as they were escaping with $200 worth of jewelry. In the ensuing scuffle, the jewelry and an additional 34 cents dropped from the thieves' pockets and they left it behind in a wild escape.

PLAY'S TONIGHT

Curtain Rises at 8:30 on 'Washington Slept Here.'

The curtain goes up promptly at 8:30 p. m. today on the Mansfield Community Players' second production this season, "George Washington Slept Here," a three-act comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman.

Staged at John Simpson Junior high school auditorium the production, directed by Mrs. E. K. Bacon, will present a number of new players in addition to performers who have appeared in past productions.

Atty. H. H. Schettler, Rev. Glenn F. Lewis, pastor of Grace Episcopal church, and J. Reynolds Hodgson, Mansfield-Leland hotel manager, are among the leading members of the cast.

In keeping with the new policy adopted by the organization at the outset of the season no one will be seated after the curtain goes up as a courtesy to both cast and the audience already seated.

"Trixie," little wire-haired terrier belonging to Assistant Postmaster W. T. Houston often serves as the main topic of after-hours conversation around the postmaster's office. And postal employes have developed a lively interest in the running amount of "Trixie's" latest escapades. Latest, according to Houston, is that after chasing away a mongrel bone-snatcher the pup resurrected two choicely aged specimens and lugged them into the Houston house for safe-keeping.

One former Mansfielder has her heart in the war to the extent that her greatest fear is that she'll be evacuated from a post of danger. She is Mrs. Thomas E. Snyder. In a letter to The News-Journal from Anchorage, Alaska, Mrs. Snyder said that her son had been drafted for territorial defense and that she had joined the Red Cross motor corps. She is the sister of Mrs. Melvin Schrader of Mansfield and Ira Courson of Doylestown.

If it seems to take a lot of coal to heat your house this winter, this may help some. During the recent cold wave two cars of coal were used in a single week to heat the Senior high school building. All the city's schools have a total of 550 tons of coal in their bins now and at least 25 more cars will be needed before the heat can be turned off next spring, according to J. B. Moke, schools purchasing agent. The schools have had no trouble getting coal so far this winter.

Not only are churches, schools, industries, Y. W. C. A. and other civic forces furnishing meeting places for first aid classes, but private homes are joining the ranks as well. When a group of friends were casting about recently for a place to hold the classes for their own newly organized first aid unit, Mrs. Harry B. Soulen, one of the members, invited the group to use the recreation room at her home, 555 Overlook road. The group began their twice-a-week sessions there last night with Mrs. W. J. Bishop as instructor.

DIES AT HOME

Miss Cora Kennedy Succumbs At Age 86; Rites Thursday.

Miss Cora Kennedy, 86, died at her home, 235½ West Fifth street, last night following a brief illness. Born in Carroll county Oct. 29, 1855, she was a resident of Mansfield for the past 45 years, and at one time was employed by the Aultman and Taylor company.

A charter member of the Central Methodist church, she is survived by her brother, Charles Kennedy of Los Angeles, Calif.

The body was taken to the Finefrock funeral home where Rev. R. L. Foulke, pastor of Central Methodist church, will conduct services Thursday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

WILLARD MAN DIES OF WOUND

Coroner Withholds Verdict In Death of Charles Niver.

WILLARD — Charles Niver, 29, of Willard, died in Memorial hospital at Norwalk Monday from a bullet wound in the chest.

Niver was found slumped over the steering wheel of his automobile near Peru on Jan. 3. Authorities said a 22 caliber rifle with one shell discharged was found beside him. He was removed to the Norwalk hospital. Huron County Coroner J. B. Bradish withheld a verdict today pending investigation.

Surviving are his widow, Geraldine; a brother, Raymond, of Willard, and two sisters, Mrs. Theodore Featheringill of Willard, and Mrs. Harold Billings of Toledo.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m., Thursday at the Secor funeral home. Rev. G. C. Heffelfinger, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church will officiate. Burial will be in Centerton cemetery.

BUT WAGNER SAYS PEACE IS 'IN CARDS'

Murray Letter Interpreted By Observers as Rebuke To John Lewis.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — New wounds as well as old grievances threatened today to impede negotiations for unifying the labor movement after seven years of separated units.

But Sen. Robert F. Wagner, (D., N. Y.), co-author of the National Labor Relations and Social Security laws, said labor peace "definitely is in the cards," although it may be some time before the differences can be composed.

President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, in a letter interpreted by most observers as a rebuke, told former CIO President John L. Lewis that only the organization's executive board could order peace conferences resumed with American Federation of Labor representatives.

Lewis had proposed to both Murray and AFL President William Green that the peace talks broken off in April, 1939, be resumed. The AFL executive council promptly accepted the proposal.

Murray, making no effort to veil his belief that Lewis acted without proper authority, invited the former CIO president to attend a meeting of the executive board in New York on Jan. 24 and "present your viewpoint."

Green denied a newspaper report that an agreement already had been reached and that it included his resignation. He said there was "absolutely no truth in the statement," and it rendered "great disservice" to the cause of "labor unity and labor peace."

Wagner believed the "bitter enmities" resulting from difficulties between the AFL and CIO would provide obstacles, despite the "overwhelbing desire of labor's rank and file for unity during the war period." He said unity would result in three important benefits:

1. Elimination of jurisdictional disputes and interunion "raiding" to the detriment of war production.

2. Strengthening of labor's nand "by unification of her strength," which will be held particularly in the post-war period.

3. Improve relations with employers heretofore plagued by jurisdictional disputes and "union politics."

BEGINS CHECK

Welfare Department Studies Nursing Homes In County.

Acting through the county probate court, the state welfare department today began a check of the private nursing homes in Mansfield and Richland county with a view to requiring all of them to obtain state licenses to operate.

A new state law which went into effect recently makes it imperative that private institutions obtain state approval, particularly if they care for mental patients, Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer said.

The permits, which cost $5, are issued by the commissioner of mental diseases, state department of public welfare, Columbus.

Buildings in which the homes are conducted must be approved by the state and the fire department in the city where they are located. Operators of the homes also must provide at least two character references, preferably physicians.

SEWER DAMAGED

Tile Washes Out Undermining Myers Avenue Sidewalk.

Mansfield street and sewer employes were working today to repair a storm sewer which was washed away last night undermining a sidewalk and threatening to weaken the street on Myers avenue.

Street workers were called out last night to place lights and barricades to warn motorists and pedestrians. Charles H. Heble, streets superintendent, said that little damage was caused by the collapse which occurred between Myers avenue and Rocky Fork creek.

ing established in the schools. The physical education program is being revamped to place emphasis on first-aid training, the superintendent told the board.

Principals are studying the facilities of their buildings in mapping plans to house pupils tor the greatest protection in the event of a raid. Plans worked out at each of the buildings will be submitted to the superintendent and forwarded to the Medical Council of Civilian Defense.

The reports include information relative to the number of persons who may be quartered in each building, cooking, drinking water, and toilet facilities, and the names of instructors and custodians in charg.e

Instructions from the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense require that principals and teachers designate certain rooms in the basement or the hallways where pupils may be taken for added protection against bombs. In every case the air raid "refugees" are in the lower part of the structures as far as possible from the impact and explosion on the roof.

Some of the schools are installing auto horns for use as air raid sirens, while others have worked out special signals on their regular fire sirens and class bells, Supt. Miller explained.

In the air raid drills pupils march to the "refuges" instead of outdoors as in the case of a fire alarm.

Fire extinguishers are being checked and put in first class working order. They would be used by the fire squads in the event incendiary bombs should be dropped on the building. The safety and fire squads in most cases are made up of older pupils who are receiving training in what to do in an emergency.

Approximately 75 men teachers in the city schools have signed up for civilian defense duty, the superintendent said. Their applications will be turned over to Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Mansfield coordinator of civilian defense.

In connection with the defense activities in the schools, the board of education last night authorized the transfer of four defense training classes from the National Youth Administration Resident center near Mifflin to Senior high school.

The classes provide instruction in electric shop, machine shop, welding, and sheet metal work. The courses are conducted under the supervision of the schools and the board of education is reimbursed by the federal government for anything it spends on the classes.

City Acts to Guard Its Water Supply

Mansfield today took two steps to guard its water supply against sabotage as Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton revealed that four city employes are standing guard at the city's Woodland reservoir and at the Maxwell Springs pumping station.

At the same time, Crafton announced that a contract for the purchase of 4,550 feet of wire fencing to be used for guarding the city's water wells had been awarded to the Martin Hardware company.

"Although the war and its bombs may seem far away from Mansfield," said Crafton, "the city must be continually and increasingly on the alert for any eventuality. Even though no organized force may create trouble, some Axis sympathizer may attempt sabotage."

Crafton said that four workers in the street department had been standing guard at the vital points in the water distribution and storage system for two weeks. The men are being paid from the city's waterworks fund at the rate of 55 cents an hour.

Three of the men are guarding the reservoir, working in eight hour shifts, while another stands guard at the Maxwell pumping station during the night.

The Martin Hardware company was awarded the contract for the wire fencing yesterday after it had entered a bid of $5,579.10 Its bid was $74 lower than that entered by the Mansfield Structural and Erecting company.

The safety director said that the guards had been placed at the reservoir and pumping station to protect residents from any effort of saboteurs to pollute or destroy the water system.

The wire fencing should arrive soon,, according to Crafton, and will be erected within the next three weeks. Plans call for seven-foot fences around five of the city's more important wells and also around the Woodland reservoir.

Farmers Told They Have Big Task

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Triumph of democracy over tyranny rests as squarely upon the shoulders of the farmer as upon the guns of the army and navy, the Ohio Defense Institute was told today at a state-wide meeting to launch a "food for victory" campaign.

Meeting in the historic house of representatives chamber at the state capitol, Gov. John W. Bricker, U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, and others told 150 farm group delegates:

"Peak production of food and clothing are vitally necessary to this country and its allies, if its armed forces are to win the war."

SUCCUMBS AT HOME OF SON

Mrs. Minna Frantz Had Spent Most of Life In Florida.

Mrs. Minna L. Frantz, 59, died yesterday at the home of her son, Oscar, 119 South Diamond street, following an illness of several months.

She had spent the greater part of her life in West Palm Beach, Fla., where she was a member of the Order of Eastern Star. She returned to Mansfield six months ago.

Surviving besides her son, Oscar, is another son, Jesse, of Miami, Fla; a daughter, Mrs. Merle Hardwick of West Palm Beach, and four grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home where Rev. Paul H. Saleste of St. John's Evangelical church will conduct services Thursday at 1:30 p. m. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

close to home, the submarine war claimed a lion's share of interest here, but the battle stakes were much bigger in the South Pacific. And, except for an occasional bright spot, the battle still fared ill for the United Nations yesterday.

The capital found something to cheer about in the performance of five American army bombers that downed nine Japanese interceptor planes in an aerial dogfight in the Indies. The bombers, the war department reported, last night, had attacked an enemy airfield at Menado in northeast Celebes with undetermined results before they tangled with the numerically superior enemy fighters. Two U. S. bombers did not return to their secret base.

U. S. army air activity on the Malay peninsula was disclosed for the first time in the same communique. Delayed advices established that army bombers had blasted the important Japanese airdrome at Sungei Patani. All the bombers returned.

The general situation in Malaya, however, continued adverse.

In the Philippines Gen. Douglas MacArthur's indomitables braced themselves for the inevitable fresh Japanese attack on their Batan peninsula positions, and from the Netherland Indies came renewed appeals for reinforcements in air, land and sea forces so that the United Nations may hold the best base for the counter-offensives against Nippon.

Prepare Report On Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Justice Owen J. Roberts and the special Pearl arbor board of inquiry has returned to Washington and is now laboring on the final report that will establish the circumstances of the Dec. 7 holocaust at Hawaii.

The board, appointed by President Roosevelt to make a first-hand investigation after Navy Secretary Frank Knox reported U. S. forces at Pearl Harbor were "not on the alert," flew quietly back to Washington last week. Its membership since has been in seclusion drafting a report which may have widespread repercussions in military and naval circles.

Justice Roberts said work on the report was under way but he was unable to say when it would be completed and in the hands of the president.

Mr. Roosevelt appointed the Roberts board immediately after Secretary Knox made a flying round trip to Hawaii and disclosed that the Battleships Arizona and Oklahoma, the decommissioned Battleship Utah, and the mine layer Ogala had been sunk in Pearl Harbor by the Japanese surprise attack, while an undisclosed number of other vessels had been damaged. The army air corps at Hickam Field also suffered a major blow.

APPEALS COURT HEARS 6 CASES

Expects To Conclude Sessions In County Today.

Richland county Court of Appeals had six cases scheduled for hearing when it opened today with Charles C. Lemert of Zanesville as the presiding judge.

Sitting with Judge Lemert on the half-dozen cases were Judges Charles W. Montgomery of Newark, and Clyde C. Sherick of Ashland.

The court expected to conclude its session this afternoon although there is a posibility that it may be necessary to extend the hearing to Wednesday.

ting a hold on herself and determining to make her life's work making their lives as normal as possible.

Patience, understanding, and placing a goal before these children . . . these three things were the means by which Mrs. Lamberton set out to achieve her goal.

"First of all, I said that they must talk, so I sent them to school after I had taught them to say a few words myself. These teachers of the deaf do a wonderful work, but they can't do it without some help from the parents," declared Mrs. Lamberton. She added that up until two years ago neither of her children had ever learned sign language.

"Then they quickly learned to sign so they could talk to people who had been brought up on signs, and who wanted to meet them after their shows."

In spite of skeptics who said it couldn't be done, Mrs. Lamberton said that she made her children "feel" a part of hearing crowds, and urged these Mansfield mothers to do the same.

"Make deaf children a part of all groups . . . make them ask for what they want, bread and butter, etc., and don't let them point for things." Be a part of them, too," she advised.

When Charlotte, her second child, was born deaf, Mrs. Lamberton was heartbroken.

But that was 22 years ago. Today Charlotte is a successful member of society, making her own living, and her brother Charles, who formerly danced with her professionally, is now engaged as a machinist in a vital defense industry on the west coast.

"It seems like an awful sorrow when they're little . . . yet when it's all over they're a part of the community, if you do your part," concluded Mrs. Lamberton.

Mrs. Lamberton and Charlotte are resting in town, between engagements, with Mrs. Mae Weaver, 191 East Second street, a relative. They were invited to visit at West First street school by Miss Marion Snyder, teacher in charge of 24 deaf pupils there.

in 29½ months. Heidelberg college also allows above-average students to take more work—20 hours a week—and graduate in only two-and-a-half years.

Western Reserve university found that college could be condensed to two years and nine months by eliminating the examination period in addition to summer vacations. But examinations won't be elimiated; they will be given along with the regular class work.

Practically all the colleges advanced the date for commencement so that the summer semester period could be expanded. Muskingum college moved up commencement exercises to May 29.

Kent State university, adjusting its curriculum to a wartime tempo, doubled its summer school session. A faculty committee at Xavier university is revising the course of studies to accelerate college training.

Ohio State, which has operated on a four-quarter plan for the past 10 years, is considering adopting the same plan for its graduate schools

The most radical acceleration plan was worked out by the University of Toledo, which allows specially qualified high school seniors to register at the university as regular students Upon completion of a semester's successful work at the university, they are awarded their high school diploma and have a semester's head-start toward a collge degree. And high school juniors with above-average grades may attend summer sessions at the university, receiving college credits awarded after they graduate from high school.

Washington's birthday and other "color" holiday vacations were eliminated by Wooster college.

Baldwin-Wallace and Oberlin, among other colleges, are offering war emergency scholarships to help students who will have no opportunity to earn extra money and must provide for college expenses in three years instead of four.

To help solve a state-wide shortage of teachers Defiance college inaugurated night and Saturday classes in education courses to qualify students for appointment as teachers next fall. Miami university at Oxford is permitting freshmen to take courses in the school of education to shorten the training of teachers.

A list of colleges which have shortened the time required to graduate from four years to three includes:

Ohio State, Western Reserve, University or Cincinnati, Oberlin, University of Toledo, Defiance, Heidelberg, Denison, Baldwin-Wallace, Wooster, Rio Grande, Mt. Union, Ohio Wesleyan, Kent State, Miami, Muskingum, Bowling Green, Wittenberg, Akron, Ohio Northern, Capital, Findlay, Bluffton and Ashland.

ILL SHORT TIME RESIDENT DIES

Francis M. Stowell, 83, of 117 Park avenue east died this morning at General hospital after an illness of several months.

A former Columbus resident; he came to Mansfield six months ago. He was a member of the Reorganized Church of the Latter Day Saints.

Surviving are one son, Paul of Buffalo; two daughters, Mrs. Clarence Bowman with whom he made his home and Mrs. Beauford Shoenfeld of Mansfield; and eight grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

PUSH DRIVE ON MALAYA COAST

Japs Press Within 60 Miles Of Singapore Despite Stiff Resistance.

anese troops in Malaya had seized a waterworks 20 miles north of Johore Bahru, thereby cutting Singapore off from a "vital source of water supply.")

Advices from the front last night said that the Australians were holding their lines everywhere and that sea-borne Japanese forces attempting landings behind the lines were mopped up before they could filter into the jungle

Most of these landings, however, were made in the vicinity of rubber estate which for years have been operated by Japanese, who obviously had provided the invaders with detailed information concerning the paths which criss-cross the swamps lying between the coast and the higher ground of central Johore.

This area has been inundated by recent heavy rains, prohibiting military operations on any extended scale.

Heavy fighting apparently still was continuing inland along the main railway leading south to Singapore, with the front somewhere in the vicinity of Segamat, about 95 miles north of here.

(A German radio broadcast heard last night in London said the Japanese now were in complete control of the Malay peninsula and were massing their forces for a final assault against Singapore island. No other source made such an extravagant claim.)

Singapore itself was without an air raid alarm yesterday for the first time in more than a week.

NET TIGHTENS AROUND NAZIS

Russians Reported Narrowing Escape Corridor For 100,000 Germans.

Russian winter was now approaching its peak, with temperatures colder than 25 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Meanwhile, in tones approaching panic, the Berlin press declared that the "onrushing enemy must be stopped, no matter when, where or how."

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters, tersely reiterating that the Germans were fighting "defensive battles" along the 1,200-mile front from Leningrad to the Ukraine, claimed success only in the Crimean campaign.

The Nazi high command said Russian troops fighting northeast of Feodosiya, which was reported recaptured by the Germans yesterday, had been driven eastward along the Kerch peninsula.

Three German divisions were vanquished in the Lama river crossing, said the government newspaper Izvestia, the Russians thrusting from Volokolamsk through Latoshino.

Reoccupation of Vereya, 13 miles southeast of Mozhaisk, and Kondrovo, in the Vyazma-Bryansk zone to the west, moved closer to German communication lines the southern arm of the Mozhaisk pincer.

Fighting for Kharkov, industrial metropolis of the Donets basin, was by both London and Berlin reports apparently in a decisive stage. The British radio said the Germans acknowledged the base "is being furiously attacked by Soviet forces from the north and the south."

Reuters, British news agency, estimated Germany had lost 2,000,000 men, killed, severely wounded, missing and prisoners in the Russian campaign.

Evidence that Adolf Hitler was seeking replacements from junior partners in the Axis came from Bern, Switzerland.

Bern dispatches said Hungary had agreed to German-Italian demands for more military assistance in the war against Russia. Hungary, which has sent only a token force east, was reported to have been asked by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to show "the same loyalty as Rumania" Russian figures indicate Rumania has sent 26 divisions against the Red army and has lost 13 of them.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1942.

Old attics will do their part in winning the war. It's amazing what resources are stored there.

Robert Quillen defines a hick town as "a place in which everybody is expected to have human weaknesses except preachers and school teachers."

A nation's internal behavior, as Anthony Eden observes, is nobody else's business: it's the international behavior that matters with the neighbors.

No Confiscation of Savings

RUMORS of one sort or another travel so fast that Secretary Morgenthau has deemed it advisable to say that savings will not be confiscated. It is unlikely that any thoughtful person feared that they would be, but there has been an inclination, on the part of at least a few people, to draw money out of savings accounts and place it in safety deposit boxes, or hide it somewhere around the home "for safe keeping."

Unless money is withdrawn from a savings account for purchase of defense bonds, or some other sound investment, it had better be left in the bank, as nothing could be more foolish than to lock up currency in a deposit box or conceal it in the home.

Now that bank deposits are guaranteed by the government, to the extent of $5,000, earlier fear of loss by bank failure is removed and the idea that money in a deposit box, or hidden at home, is safer than in a bank savings account is fallacious.

The only thing likely to reduce the value of savings is inflation resulting from unrestricted price increases of commodities, and the government is now attempting to prevent this by enactment of a price control law.

Moderate price increases will be unavoidable, taxes will be much higher and many of the conveniences common to American standards of living will be missing for the duration of war, but it is only in the event of victory by the Axis powers that confiscation of savings accounts and other personal belongings need be feared.

Less Nonessential Driving

ACTION by Ohio Kiwanis clubs, taken at a state meeting in Bowling Green last week, directs attention to the growing inclination of motorists to conserve use of cars and tires during present restriction on sale of these commodities.

Kiwanians decided to abandon their practice of holding intra-state, or inter-city meetings, which require members to travel a considerable distance to attend.

Such meetings have been common to a number of service clubs and travel between cities has customarily been by automobile, with little thought given to the cost of gasoline or the wear on car and tires.

Now, however, the aim of wise motorists will be to extend the life of car and tires as long as possible, which will make it necessary not only to exercise greater care but also to eliminate much nonessential driving and to use train or bus for long trips.

The familiar slogan, "See America First," may be revised, for the duration, to "Take a walk through Mansfield's beautiful parks."

Time for Baseball, President Says

WHEN President Roosevelt said, a few days ago, that baseball should go on, even in wartime, it seems reasonable to assume that he meant also that sports and various diversions designed to provide relaxation from routine will continue to have a place in community and national life.

It cannot be argued that professional baseball, or proficiency in any sport, should defer military service—nor has this been done—but a combination of baseball playing and civilian war work will fit nicely into the schedules of many men who, for some reason, are not required for army duty.

Until there is strong argument to the contrary it seems justified that all men and women engaged in civilian work endeavor to give some time to relaxation and entertainment, as a physical, mental and spiritual release from the tenseness of wartime pursuits.

War's Destruction Extends Far

ADD to the instances of war-caused destruction: the annihilation, announced not long ago, of the Leo Tolstoy library and museum in Moscow. It contained manuscripts, letters and first editions of this famous writer's works, given by him to the Russian nation. This collection is irreplaceable.

The British Museum, too, one of the world's greatest libraries, announces serious losses, through bombing, of books on law and archaeology.

Such destruction is often, of course, accidental. Bombs fall where they will and hit libraries and museums, though aimed at munition plants. Too often, however, it is purposeful, seeking wantonly to destroy an enemy's prize possession, and so perhaps reduce him to despair. Thus twice, once in each world war, have the Germans burnt the great Belgian library at Louvain.

Most wars have not seen such hatred of others' culture. For a long time the world's proverbial example of wanton destruction of valuable records was the burning of the ancients' greatest library, that at Alexandria, by vandals ignorant of its value. The enormity of this act is now equalled by like crimes of German origin. These deeds may outweigh all others in posterity's estimate of German barbarism.

Russia Can't Do It Alone

EVERY DAY that the German retreat in Russia continues is a day of added hope. The parallel of Hitler's retreat from Moscow and Napoleon's gains in force. Yet even if this parallel be complete, and the German army turned from a machine into a mob, there is still plenty of need for caution.

Even after the Russian disaster, Napoleon lasted three years and beat his opponents in major battles. It would be unwise to believe that the Russians will save us the trouble of defeating Germany.

Credited to a New York barber, the offer is now extending over the country: "Japs shaved free. Not responsible for accidents."

Showing what can be done in an emergency—the government is now about to "freeze alcohol."

Listen World!

Least Used Force

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

FAITH is the greatest force in human life. It's greater than intelligence, charm, physical beauty or strength, political power or social position. There's practically nothing that a man can't do for and with himself if he has Faith. It's the one force which can solve all our present difficulties and heave us out of our present miseries.

Moreover, Faith is the one miracle-worker which is available to us all, rich or poor, wise or stupid. It costs absolutely nothing. And no tricks are required to use it.

Yet in spite of all this Faith is the least used force on earth. Few of us really believe in it or talk about it, except on Sunday . . . fewer still make it a part of their common lives.

And this is probably due to the mischievous notion that Faith is not part of the common life—that it's a religious rite, to be used by select saints for moral issues only. Piffle! One might as well say that the Law of Gravitation is a religious rite, to be used for moral issues only.

Faith, like Gravitation, is a natural law. It is, per se, no more religious than any other natural law. It isn't even a moral issue. It may be, and frequently is, used as successfully by sinners as by saints, and for vicious deeds as well as virtuous ones.

Yet because of this idiotic and malignant notion, millions ignore the most potent tool in their power and proceed to lead lives of miserable niggardliness, instead of enjoying the power and abundance which is their rightful heritage.

We humans weren't meant to drag through our days like half-starved worms. We were meant to walk erect like gods, joyfully, proudly, taking that which we need in endless abundance. And it isn't the Democratic Administration or the Capitalistic System which is keeping us from doing it, either. It's our own cock-eyed lack of FAITH.

How do you get a glass of water or a plate of food when you need it? You reach out your hand for them, don't you? But there are intangible things which a man needs even more desperately than he needs food or drink—courage, insight charm, confidence, wit, the power to influence others.

One can't reach out one's hand for these things. No. But one can use another organ which replaces the fumbling hand of childhood . . . an organ which can crash the barriers of materiality and thrust itself deeply into those rich reserves of creation where lie all things which are needful for human growth.

One can use FAITH.

What a hand is to the body, FAITH is to the mind and spirit. And as simply as a child grasps a toy with its hand, so simply may a man grasp life more abundant with his FAITH—if he but believes he can.

Again I repeat—I am not talking religion.

I am talking the simplest, most fundamental and provable common sense. I am talking about something which you actually demonstrate every day of your life. No matter how poor you are or how discouraged, every day you take it for granted that certain things will happen—and they DO. The dawn happens—no matter how dark the night. Hope happens—no matter how deep our despair. Love happens—no matter how great our unworthiness.

These things don't happen because we bow six times to the East, scratch our left toenail and eat shredded turnips. They happen because they were meant to happen and we believe they can happen and as soon as we put the right law into effect, they DO happen.

Just as when you drop a vase gravitation happens — pronto! — so as surely when you use Faith —when you believe you've a right to the things you need and reach out for them—THOSE THINGS WILL HAPPEN TO YOU.

Does that mean you can be a tap dancer or a crooner just by believing so? Migosh, I hope not! Isn't life hard enough to bear without 7,000,000 more tap dancers and crooners?

But it DOES mean that you can be strong where you've been weak, glad where you've been sad, vital where you've been a grizzly drink of water. It means that the old verse is true—not on rare, spiritual occasions, but in the simplest, commonest circumstances of our lives:

"Ask, and it shall be given you, seek, and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you."

You still don't believe it? All right — don't. Go right on being a worm, if that's your idea of a hot time. But don't say I didn't offer you a better-break.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, January 20, 1922

Cleveland-Southwestern interurban line went into receivership.

Purchase of site and erection of new high school was deferred because of difficulty in sale of bonds.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Balliett, southeast of city.

Mrs. Carson Zimmerman returned home after undergoing operation in Cleveland hospital.

Neighbors arranged surprise party for M. L. Robinson on his 72nd birthday anniversary.

Maxwell Young moved from Mansfield to Louisville, Ky.

P. F. Harmon, Boughton avenue, became suddenly ill while attending prayer meeting.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Wednesday, Jan. 20, 1937.

City's 6,000,000-gallon water storage reservoir in Woodland was drained for cleaning.

Mrs. Mary Beasore of near Lucas celebrated 98th birthday anniversary.

Valley residents in Ohio and Indiana evacuated as the Ohio river climbed four feet in 24 hours, threatening the worst flood since 1913.

Craig Arthur Lorimor, 70, died at his home on North Mulberry street.

Miss Ernestine Baumgardner was elected secretary of the executive body of Lowry Hall, dormitory at Kent State university, where she was enrolled in freshman class.

TODAY IN HISTORY

In Washington, D. C., on Jan. 20, 1937, on the main portico of the Capitol, his head bared to the rain, Franklin Delano Roosevelt took for the second time the oath as president of the United States.

Timely Editorial

For Bonds or for Taxes.

In the next year the government would like to borrow about 35 billion dollars. That amount would be necessary to piece out the total projected expenditures of about 62 billions, after some 27 billions had been collected in taxes.

The preference is to borrow this enormous amount of money from individuals through the sale of defense bonds and stamps. Probably not all of it could be obtained in that way within a single year. But the more of it that is so obtained the greater will be the savings built up and the excess purchasing power drained off as a preventive of inflation.

Now it so happens that wartime taxes will be levied not only to provide revenue but also to prevent price inflation. What would be simpler and more alluring, therefore, than a liberal buying of the bonds and stamps as an investment rather than holding the money back to be taken in greater amounts of taxation?

It's a bargain proposition to the American people if they will view it that way and take the hint.—Kansas City Star.

How It Started

Plains of Abraham.

A reader inquires: "After whom are the Plains of Abraham named? The Biblical character?"

These heights commemorate one of Canada's pioneers, Abraham Martin, whose ancestry was Scotch.

Maitre Abraham, as Martin was known, was a genial, friendly soul, liked by all the neighbors.

He had been one of the earliest pilots on the St. Lawrence river and in his later years retired to farm and raise cattle.

Martin's homestead deed was granted by the founder of Quebec, Sameul de Champlain.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Believe Wendell Willkie Slated For Important Wartime Job Soon

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There is a big war job in the works for Wendell Willkie. It will be the kind of work he likes and for which he is particularly fitted. The appointment will be offered him shortly.

The matter was not discussed when the GOP chief went to the White House last week because the president's plans were still incomplete. Willkie's visit was for another purpose, which cannot be disclosed for military reasons.

That purpose had nothing to do with naming him to a panel of War Labor Board "umpires," a suggestion he rejected as too inconsequential to consider.

White House Secretary Steve Early was responsible for this boner, which enabled enemies of both Willkie and Roosevelt to make it appear that a rift had developed between them. Early told newsmen that Willkie would be named an umpire, although Willkie did not discuss the matter with the president.

The inside fact is that the panel of umpires is a subject of bitter inner administration dispute.

It's a scheme cooked up by Secretary Frances Perkins and is being hotly opposed by OPM labor chief Sidney Hillman and War Labor Board Chairman William Davis.

Hillman blocked inclusion of the plan in the executive order creating the WLB, and thought he had it squelched. But Miss Perkins later revived it at the White House without Hillman's knowledge. The first he knew her scheme was kicking around again was when he read news accounts of the story put out by Early.

Meddling Fanny.

THE UMPIRE scheme was only one of several hot ideas uncorked by the bungling labor secretary during the two weeks she worked on selecting the personnel of the war labor board.

Her first proposal was that Jim Farley, former Democratic national chairman, be named chairman of the board.

Behind the scenes of this move was jealousy of Davis, who had won nationwide eminence by his courageous and able handling of the old national defense mediation board, plus secret sniping by John L. Lewis, who hates Davis because he took no guff from the eye-brow waggling miner czar.

Hillman, backed by potent CIO and AFL leaders, turned thumbs down on Farley in a hot session with Miss Perkins that she will remember for a long time. She was bluntly told that the country was at war and that this was not the time to "play petty politics."

Blocked on Farley, Miss Perkins then trotted out a succession of other names among them Dartmouth President Hopkins and Amherst President King. She also proposed as a member of the board Charles Wyzanski, former labor department general counsel, now a Boston corporation attorney. All were flatly rejected.

In the midst of this undercover jangle, Miss Perkins, through CIO forces hostile to Hillman, took a swipe at Hillman. In a letter to Roosevelt, with which on the surface she had no connection, the demand was made that all government labor agencies be restored to her department.

This attempted flank attack was a dud. The president didn't even trouble to acknowledge the letter.

Finally, in another hot showdown with Miss Perkins, Hillman forced the acceptance of Davis as WLB chairman and, as he mistakenly thought, the abandonment of the umpire scheme. This plan didn't go into the executive order, but it's still kicking around like a disembodied ghost.

Whatever else she may be, Miss Perkins is persistent. Also the president is very very patient with his secretary of labor.

Note: AFL President William Green recommended Harvard Law Dean James Landis for WLB chairman. CIO President Phil Murray's choice was Thomas Murray, (no relation) prominent New York engineer. The CIO's leftwing general counsel Lee Pressman tried secretly to get an appointment to the board for Max Lowenthal, an attorney on the staff of Senator Burt Wheeler.

Tweet, Tweet.

REPRESENTATIVE Clyde Ellis of Arkansas is known in the house for two things: his militant New Dealism and his inimitable Ozark stories. When he tells one of them his colleagues gather around with wide-open ears.

Ellis related this one the other day: A long, lean hill boy walked into a railroad station and told the telegraph operator he wanted to send a wire to his girl who was visiting in Little Rock.

"All right," said the operator, "what do you want to send?"

"Send her this—Tweet, tweet, tweet. Tweet, tweet, tweet. Tweet, tweet, tweet."

The operator scratched his head, but made no comment. He counted the words and said, "You can add one more word if you want to. It won't cost you any more." The boy said he guessed not. Nine would be enough.

"Why don't you add one more tweet?"

"Naw," replied the boy. "That would be silly."

Gravy-Train Statesman.

BEFORE the appointment of Donald Nelson as production chief, the office of price control was one place where the president had centered authority in a single executive. You would think that this would have been acclaimed and zealously preserved. If you do, you don't know the gray train-minded statesmen that make up the so-called farm bloc.

Although some of them have been among the most raucous pre-Nelson critics of Roosevelt for his failure to centralize authority, the bloc wrote into the price control bill a provision dividing control over key phases of this vital war legislation between Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard.

This disruptive move was no compliment to Wickard. The bloc voted him veto power over Henderson on farm prices because the farm lobby knows that Henderson can't be pushed around and Wickard can. The Indianan is an amiable and well-intentioned gentleman who has the interest of the farmers at heart, but when the professional farm "leaders" crack the whip, Wickard gets cold chills and runs for cover.

They handle him without trouble and that is why they cloaked him with price control power. The lobby boys know that they and not Wickard will fix the prices.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I wouldn't think of missing the obituary columns of the daily metropolitan newspapers. In them is much of the best reading to be found in current journalism. Thousands of words daily are devoted to the careers of those who have passed on, and the span of a day's notices reaches all the way from ex-Indian fighters and poets to statesmen, police records and X-ray technicians.

In the page spread out before me I see where an actor, an opera star, an ex-cavalryman, a sister of mercy, a doctor, a Bolivian cabinet minister, a newspaperman, a college president, a photographer, and a Canadian senator have died.

THE Indian fighter had reached 93 years befo e he passed on. He was Byron D. Ferguson, one of the last survivors of the old United States Cavalry troop that battled the Sioux for so many years west of Larar ie. He fought at Rosebud Creek, Slim Butte, and skirmished all over the west. Once he ran into part of the same band of Sioux under Sitting Bull that ten days later annihilated Major General George Custer and his troops. Paper was scarce on the plains in those days, and when Ferguson's enlistment with the cavalry was up his discharge was written out on a mule hide, one of the few documents of its kind now in existence.

Dead also is Emma Calvé, famed operatic singer, who won great acclaim but not before she was hissed and all but stoned off the stage in Milan. She came out of a convent and endured great poverty, singing in firetrap halls until she won recognition.

IN 1922 she wrote her memoirs and in them described how she had experienced success and failure, how she ha l sung before emperors and coal miners, how she had been denounced at La Scala in Milan and applauded with frenzy in St. Petersburg and New York.

Returning to Milan, scene of her earlier grief, she says in her memoirs, "The audience received me coldly during the first act. I was in despair. I went on the stage in a desperate mood, too frantic to care how I looked, pale with grief and rage. I had no make-up, my dress was in disorder. I must have seemed half mad. The audience thought it was a studied effect and I felt a current of interest and sympathy sweep through the theater. I began singing with a complete abandon, a tragic fervor. . . . The audience burst into a thunder of applause. Seldom have I had such an ovation. I can truly say it was the greatest moment in my operatic career."

DEAD too is Dr. George A. Smith, more than 50 years in the service of the state, a man who devoted his early years to the study and care of the insane. As consulting alienist on the staff of the governor he conducted final examinations of many condemned prisoners, including Ruth Snyder, Judd Gray, and Frances (Mad Dog) Crowley.

So it goes, column after column, name aft r name, day after day. It's mass biography in panorama. As I say, I wouldn't miss it for anything.

Our nomination for the strangest novel of the year is "After the Afternoon"—by Arthur MacArthur. It's about a faun named Lykos who is privileged by the gods to assume mortal shape and whose spirit can enter into any body he chooses. The lone restriction is that, once having entered a body, he isn't permitted to leave it until that body dies. You never read such a strange tale in all your born days.

Hornets' Nest

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FIFTEEN miles or so northeast of my home, I saw a mammoth hornets' nest. At the top, where it was securely anchored among some wild cherry branches, the circumference was as large as a standard wholesalers' hamper, and it was three-fourths as long. The bottom was only about four feet above the ground.

I measured the outside surface with my hands. If I could have rolled it back intact, I believe there would have been a square yard of felt-like paper, with great insulating power. I pared some large outer scales away, and found a dead air space concealed beneath, like a broad, thin blister. This deserted house was made patch upon patch, until the inverted cone I looked upon had an unusual surface made up of a million or more parts, perhaps.

I could hardly believe that a single queen could found a colony large enough to build such a gigantic mansion in just one season. I tore a portion from the pointed tip. It was soft and leathery. I dipped it into water and found it moisture proof. I wondered how long such a house would remain if prowling hands, or birds or maggots did not molest it. But I knew that even if it should be preserved in perfect order, it would not serve the same industrious race again. They build anew each year . . . but over the same old blueprint that rare instinct has designed for them, down through the ages.

The brood combs, if a single inch or two feet in diameter, will always hang in a horizontal plane, with spaces the same between, and the open part of the cell downward. The shape is the exact replica of every other nest, if left to hang free from obstruction.

In autumn, even before cold weather, a general languor infests the colony. No more eggs are laid. The patient, devoted "nurses" that early in the season cared for and tenderly fed the ravenous grubs become hardhearted, toward the last, and pull the remaining grubs out rudely from their cells and cast them from the house. To them autumn means a "scorched earth" retreat.

Not a single tiny form of hornet life remains with the palace—the halls are silent and deserted. Of all the myriads of this splendid colony not one returns home to die. It is as though their palace is left to be their monument. One queen, alone, survives, in the earth itself—and comes forth, in spring to start another colony.

T[illegible]ERS

Achieves Stardom.

Roddy McDowall, the 12-year-old English boy who came to this country a year ago after the family home in Britain was bombed, has achieved stardom in Screen Director John Ford's masterpiece, "How Green Was My Valley," showing at the Ohio theater. On the strength of his work as the crippled "Huw," he has been given an important role in another picture, "Son of Fury," by Benjamin Blake. Walter Pidgeon has the role of the minister in the Ford picture which deals with the lives of a typical Welsh family in a mining village. Donald Crisp, Sara Allgood and Maureen O'Hara are other players.

Musical Picture.

A barn-storming jazz band which swings around the country playing the music of the streets, the waterfront and the cotton-fields is the motivating force in "Blues In the Night," a drama with music showing at the Madison. The picture stars Richard Whorf of the Lunt-Fontanne stage company in the role of the guiding spirit of the band. Priscilla Lane plays the songbird and the cast includes Jack Carson and Lloyd Nolan. Humphrey Bogart in "The Maltese Falcon," is the second attraction.

New Comedy.

Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant have plenty of problems in "Bringing Up Baby," their new comedy production opening at the Park tomorrow. "Baby," in this case, is a pet leopard belonging to an impetuous society girl played by Miss Hepburn. Grant as a zoology professor is employed to help keep tab on "Baby." Others in the three-ring circus into which the picture develops are Charlie Ruggles, May Robson and Barry Fitzgerald. "Secrets of the Lone Wolf," the second attraction, has Warren William

AUDITOR READY TO SPLIT FUND

$199,975 In Personal Property Tax Receipts to Be Given County Subdivisions.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe prepared today to allocate funds totaling $199.975 collected during the last-half personal tax payment period for 1941.

Settlement figures were sent to the state tax commission for approval. If the set-up is approved, the money will be allocated to the county subdivisions about the end of this week, Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck said.

Schools will receive $89,058, or nearly half of the total amount collected. Mansfield schools will get $23,000 this week. They previously received an advance of $40,000, giving them a total of $63,000. Beck pointed out that a part of the school funds must be used for bond retirement.

From the general personal tax funds the county will get $27,006; townships, $7,790; cities and villages, $47,092.

Included in the total tax revenue was $29,097 which will be allocated to the libraries, cities, villages and the county.

No Increase Seen In Meal Prices At School Cafeterias

Approximately 1,650 Mansfield pupils will not have to worry about increases in the price of their noon meals if plans of Mrs. Francis Hypes, school cafeteria director, work out.

Expecting a bost in the cost of retail foods when planning the year's operations, Mrs. Hypes contracted with Mansfield meat and dairy dealers to buy foods from them at a set cost through the year and stocked school larders with enough canned vegetables to last the year.

"So far, we have been very lucky," Mrs. Hypes explained, "with both arrangements and through the cooperation of the food dealers are practically certain that we can maintain our present prices of 18 cents and 12 cents for plant lunches until spring."

Of the 1,650 pupils, 1,000 take lunches at Senior high school, 400 at Johnny Appleseed junior high and 250 at John Simpson junior high.

OK'S TOTAL OF $525,000 FOR SHELBY IN '42

Council Sets Up $87,000 For General Fund; Increase of $14,000 Over '41.

SHELBY—City council approved the annual appropriation ordinance totaling $525,953.63 for operation of municipal government, municipal electric and water companies and bond retirement for 1942 as read by Finance Director Chester P. Monn at the regular semi-monthly council session Monday night at city hall.

Most of the funds in the ordinance were increased for this year as compared with figures set up in the ordinance for 1941.

The general fund total was $87,400.74 for operation of municipal government for 1942. The ordinance set up $241,540.32 for Municipal Electric company and $78,118.35 for Municipal Water company. Both funds are derived from the revenue of the two companies.

These figures compare with $73,555.41 set up in the general fund in 1941, or the grand total of $444,243.37 which means the ordinance this year was approximately $81,710 higher this year than it was set up for 1941.

New funds set up in the ordinance this year for the first time is the appropriation for Civilian Defense totaling $500 and the depreciation fund under the fire department allocation of $900, Monn disclosed.

The police and fire department funds increased in the ordinance this year as compared with the funds set up for last year. This was due to salary increases and additional men added to the two departments.

A total of $17,750 was set up for the police department and $20,765.74 for the fire department this year as compared with $12,875 for the police and $18,535 for the fire department last year.

Other fund totals of interest were:

Council, $1,050; mayor, $2,400; auditor, $4,750; solicitor, $1,350; legal advertising, $700; damages paid by city, $3,250; civil service commission, $150; contingencies, $6,000; outdoor relief, $7,800; general administration of health department, $2,710; street repairing, $2,450; drains and sewers, $12,450; public parks, $2,000; general bond retirement, $69,630.69; and special bond retirement, $16,980.68.

ALVENA SPRIGGINS WEDS FRED H. RADER

Rev. H. E. Tropf Performs Candlelight Ceremony for Couple at 7 P. M. on Jan. 17 Before Altar of Grace Gospel Church.

IN AN IMPRESSIVE candlelight service on Jan. 17 at 7 p. m. before the altar of the Grace Gospel church, Miss Alvena Spriggins, 108 West Second street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Spriggins of Youngstown, became the bride of Fred H. Rader, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rader, Millsboro road. Rev. H. E. Tropf performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with palms, ferns and two seven branch candelabra.

For her wedding Miss Spriggins was attired in a white wool street length frock with black accessories. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls and she wore a shoulder corsage of an orchid and white roses. She carried a handkerchief that her mother had carried at her wedding.

Miss Haldyne Spriggins, pianist, sister of the bride of Youngstown, played nuptial music preceding and during the ceremony. She wore a black street length frock with black and white accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Miss Spriggins played "I Love You Truly" and the traditional wedding marches.

Immediately following the wedding, which was read in the presence of 20 members of the immediate families and relatives, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents. Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table attractively decorated with pink and white appointments and centered with a wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple. When the couple left for a short wedding trip the bride wore a taupe costume suit with blue accessories and a shoulder corsage of an orchid.

Mrs. Rader graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and Comptometer school and is now employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Rader graduated from Mansfield Senior high school, attended Ashland college and has been a student in law at Ohio Northern university during the past year. He will leave Wednesday for the U. S. army air base at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala. Mr. Rader is a member of Sigma Delta Kappa fraternity. The couple is residing temporarily with the bridegroom's parents.

University Women List Defense Activities

A yardstick for measuring their own war effort is being prepared for the Mansfield branch and other branches of the American Association of University Women by their national headquarters.

A series of questions, keyed to activities in safeguarding the public schools, providing nutrition education projects, promoting nursery schools and supervised day care for babies of working mothers, supporting public libraries as a source of community education and recreational reading will promote searching discussion and intended action.

The national board meeting of the association is being held in Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 to Feb. 3. Mrs. E. E. Storkan, vice president of the Northeast Central region, will represent this section.

Mrs. Storkan's greetings accompanying the "Yardstick" say, "Above all, we must fight for that principle which is our foundation-educational opportunity for all."

The "Yardstick" which takes the form of a series of "check list" questions on what A. A. U. W. branches are doing in community defense, asks many questions.

A. A. U. W. branches are asked if they are organizing and conducting community forums; cooperating in consumer information centers; taking part in salvage campaigns; furthering defense savings; conducting classes in conservation and repair of household appliances and clothing; making local surveys on changed family and employment situations; organizing volunteers to help welfare agencies, hospitals, and recreation centers; serving on housing committees and fair rent committees.

If interest of a group is in the arts, its members are being asked if they are turning their illustrative gifts to defense poster-making; their writing gifts to presenting defense needs to the community; their drama gifts to community entertainment.

MUSICAL PROGRAM GIVEN AT MEETING

Mrs. J. H. Todd, Mrs. A. C. Butterfield and Miss Thelma Reed Give Program at Round Table Club Meeting at Women's Club.

MRS. J. H. TODD gave an interesting talk on "Music In the Totalitarian Countries" at the meeting of the Round Table club held Monday at 1:30 p. m. at the Women's Club. Mrs. John W. Cook was hostess for the meeting which was a dessert-luncheon. Twenty members and four guests, Mrs. Rufus Tracy, Mrs. Thomas Richardson, Mrs. A. C. Butterfield and Miss Thelma Reed, were in attendance.

Mrs. Butterfield and Miss Reed, pianists, assisted Mrs. Todd during the program. Some of the selections played by Miss Reed were "Marche" by Prokofieff, a Russian composer; "Rhapsody In C" by the Hungarian composer, Dohnanyi, and "Un Petit Au Blanc" by Ibert, a French composer.

Mrs. Butterfield played parts of Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 and showed how it became associated with the "-for victory campaign because of it's "dot-dot-dot-dash" motif, which means V in the Morse code. Mrs. Todd and Mrs. Butterfield played Tschaikowsky's "Pathetique Symphony" to conclude the program.

Mrs. Edwin Mansfield and Mrs. W. J. Tappan presided at the luncheon table which was attractively decorated with white chrysanthemums. The next meeting of the club will be held Feb. 2 at the Women's Club with Mrs. B. F. Hagelbarger as hostess. Mrs. Carl B. Gibson will give the program on "People Without a Country."

Recent Bride Honored By Mrs. Dirlam

First in a series of parties planned for Mrs. Jack Gilbert, nee Miriam Tappan, was given last evening by Mrs. Robert Dirlam at her home, 492 Forest Hill road. Wedding of the former Miss Tappan and Mr. Gilbert was an event of Saturday, Jan. 10. Ten guests were present to honor the bride with a grocery shower.

During the evening the group made a bride's book. When lunch was served at a late hour the table was attractively decorated with ivory tapers and red roses. On Friday, Miss Mary Jean McCormick will entertain at her home in Mrs. Gilbert's honor.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN SEW.

University Women will meet Wednesday for an all-day sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. Emil Lommatzch, 98 West Fifth street. Children's snow suits and tiny tots' sleepers are now in all processes of completion. Both machine and hand sewing are being done by the group. Meetings which begin at 9 a. m. every Wednesday are well attended. New workers are urged to attend and bring with them any available portable sewing machines.

Boys Leaving City For Navy Honored Monday

Navy Mother's club members entertained Mansfield boys leaving the city this week for Naval training stations with a party Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. During the evening the group sang America and gave the pledge to the flag.

Fred Lewis and his children, local professional roller skaters, presented a program. Four senior high school girls, the Co-eds, sang several numbers. John, Janice and Joan Brandt also furnished a program of vocal numbers. George Bock, recruiting officer, gave a short talk.

Mrs. George Sattler, Mrs. Mary Smith and Mrs. Florence Blunk, president of the club, gave short talks. Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table attractively decorated with patriotic appointments and miniature American flags. Each boy was presented with a service book at the close of the evening. Installation of club officers will be held Jan. 26 at the Y. M. C. A.

Party Honors Mrs. Frisbee

Honoring Mrs. William Frisbee, who was Miss Mary Anderson prior to her marriage on Dec. 31, Miss Mary Bishop entertained with a dessert-bridge at her home, 454 South Main street, last evening. A kitchen shower was given for Mrs. Frisbee by the 10 guests. Gift of silver was presented to the honoree by the hostess.

Mrs. Herbert Palmer, of Shelby, and Miss Evangeline Williams were recipients of the prizes in bridge.

Bad Coughs Yield Quickly To This Home Mixture

Surprisingly Quick Relief. No Cooking. Saves Money.

Here's a medicine for coughs due to colds, that you mix in your own kitchen. It's so easy to prepare that a child could do it, but it's so effective that, once tried, you'll never again be without it in your home.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed — no trouble at all.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of very wonderful cough syrup. It's thrifty, too—about four times as much for your money. And children take it willingly, because it tastes so good.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that's surprising. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable agent for soothing throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Husband Tired Of Married Life

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

After ten years of married life, I find my wife, who is a good woman, an excellent mother, a thrifty housekeeper so uninteresting that I dread eating dinner at home. I've even caught myself playing a devilish game, figuring out in advance what her answer would be to anything said. And I always win this game.

Out she comes with a platitude, copy-book maxim, or something she must have found in the family almanac. She never reads anything worth while, doesn't know what's going on in the world unless I tell her. She likes to see the silliest of movies, and listens to the poorest programs the radio offers.

I've always been faithful to my wife and I find myself looking and listening to every attractive woman that I meet. I make every excuse to dine away from home, though I never dine with ladies. If it weren't for this war I'd pull out and go away somewhere for six months. I am weary, but hate the thought of leaving my boy and girl.

Fed Up

What you need is a hobby or perhaps a couple of them. Treading the same old cinder path, after ten years of monotonous existence, brings about a state of mind similar to yours. Have you ever tried to educate the little woman and develop that unused mind of hers? Do you take her to see good plays, concerts, or suggest that she listen to the better class of programs on the radio?

While you're bored to tears, you'd probably be heartbroken if you were separated from your children. Temperamentally, you're not a skirt-chaser, and to deliberately seek a glamor girl to replace Old Reliable wouldn't make a man of your type happy.

This man's letter is a sermon to all wives who allow themselves to fall into a rut. Pep up your mind and your interest in things, ladies, and don't let your husbands figure ou' your answers to questions in advance.

* * *

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been married 15 years, most of which have been very unhappy We have two children, 13 and 8.

I was raised in a home where there was never any strife, and although we didn't have much money, we had a world of love and affection. There were five of us, and when my mother died I was 16, and it was my job to raise three younger children.

My husband is drunk a good deal of the time and is insanely jealous if I visit my folks or they jealous if I visit my folks or they come to visit me. My daughter begs me to leave him. But my people cannot give us any material help, and I have contracted tuberculosis through worry. I fear I could not support the children even if I did leave.

I don't know what rights I have in law, and my children do have a roof over their heads and enough to eat, but I'm afraid of what such home conditions may do to their characters. I've stood about all I can and keep my sanity.

Coward.

Go to the Legal Aid bureau, which is under the Department of Public Welfare in St. Louis, and they will tell you what steps to take in regulating your domestic problem. Meanwhile, the innumerable alphabetical agencies which the government maintains may be able to suggest some light work you might do without further imparing your health.

If you feel that the tuberculosis is due to worry, why worry? It has been said of worry that it is "the greatest thief on earth and that thief works without chance of detection." Drink plenty of milk, eat nourishing food, get all the sleep you can, avoid hard physical labor, and see your own folks in spite of your husband's drunks and grouches.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"ROOM 1239," Philip Veritzen said crisply into the telephone. "Say that Mr. Philip Veritzen is calling."

I noticed two unusual things about this call. He did not give Stephen Redfield's name to the operator, as he ordinarily would have done, and he emphasized his own first name, an emphasis which he knew the operator would note—and repeat.

Evidently he was taking no chances that Stephen might fearfully imagine it was Noel Veritzen calling, but I guessed that he was getting what Mary would describe as a "gigantic kick" out of Noel's anger against Redfield, and the actor's patent fear of Mary's husband.

He had not overheard the slur against Noel which Redfield had uttered, but he knew there had been a flare-up over Steve's attentions to Mary, and although I knew that his theatrical laxity—or broadmindedness—would think nothing of those attentions, I knew also that he was aware of the heritage of jealous rage which he had transmitted to Noel from his own "bar-sinister" royal ancestry, and that his secret sympathies would be with his son.

Call Delayed.

"No answer?" he said in a second, and I stiffened with anxiety. I knew how much my father depended upon my getting hold of Redfield, and I knew if he had left the hotel, it would be only by chance that I could contact him before Mary should meet him at the theater, a meeting for which I wished to pave the way.

"He probably is in the bath with the water running," the proprietor of the Lansfield went on curtly. "Keep ringing him and call me back here as soon as you get him provided, of course, this line is not busy. Now, please give me the room clerk.

"Has the occupant of 1239 checked out or gone out, leaving the key at the desk?" he asked. An instant later he said "No? Still here? Very well. Put Adams on the wire. He's on that floor, 1238."

He waited for a few seconds on that order, which I knew involved getting the telephone operator back on the job, and muttered an aside to us.

"Adams is one of the house dicks. I had him put next door to Steve last night."

He had omitted no precaution, I noticed, against Noel's possible discovery of Redfield's whereabouts. But I had no time for further reflection, for he was speaking again.

"Adams! Is 1239 in his room, or has he gone out?"

He listened for a second longer, then give a crisp direction.

"All right. Watch carefully. If he starts out, tell him that Mr. Philip Veritzen—be sure you give my first name—wishes him to stay in his room until he gets a message from me. Goodbye."

He hung up the receiver and turned to us.

"Adams says he hasn't gone out, and that he can hear his shower going. That's the reason, of course, for his not answering. We'll probably hear from him in a minute or two."

His prediction was fulfilled in less than that time, and when the call came he nodded at me, then began to talk briskly:

"Redfield! How do you feel this morning? Over your nervousness, I trust. What? You are not aware that you were nervous. Well, I probably was mistaken. I have been occasionally in my life."

The expression on his face was that of an impish boy, something so surprising in the august producer of my play that I could hardly believe my eyes.

"But," he continued, "while I naturally am interested in your welfare, it was not about your nerves—or nerve—that I wished to talk with you."

He paused, the smile of mockery still on his lips, and beckoned to me to come to the telephone.

"Mrs. Graham is here and wishes to speak with you," he went on. "Will you talk with her?"

Makeup Puts Cream on the Beauty Cake

By MME. QUI VIVE

Though factory blushes like ripe red apples no longer decorate the feminine face, don't fancy that makeup is on the wane. No, madame, it is just getting slicker and slicker every minute. Say what you will about lips that look like two streaks of strawberry jam, eyelashes cleverly darkened, complexions that are hand-tooled, you must confess that without these aids we'd all look pretty washed out. The lovely natural complexion of which we used to hear tell when the grandmas reviewed the past belongs to a prehistoric period. The grandmas, bless their youthful hearts, have joined up, have fun with their makeup kits.

The beauty parade hasn't any sidelines: everybody is in it, marching under the banners of pulchritude. The beauty show hasn't any audience because every girl and woman is giving a performance of her own. Gratifying to the public eye. And what would happen if a law were passed to deprive us of our powder pads and lipsticks? There would be a revolution; we'd fight like fiends?

We've discovered, these last 12 months, that a synthetic blush of normal temperature is more seductive than the one that looks as if it would register 104. We are no longer cosmetically aggressive because we know that too much artifice defeats our aims.

To apply make-up successfully is to be expert in the gentle art of illusion. No two faces can be treated alike. One must consider the profile, the form of the features, the texture of the skin and its natural coloring. The color of the dress may require more highlights or less than one ordinarily uses. And, as every woman knows, daylight calls for restraint while at night, when the merry party is going and the lights are on, one can indulge a bit more freely in war paint.

It is a safe rule to apply rouge high. Start under the eyes, swing up to the cheek bones and, if eye shadows aren't on the cosmetic bill of fare, tint the eyelids lightly. When Nature places a blush upon the alabaster cheek, the eyelids flush a bit and so do the ear lobes. Nature furnishes us with our patterns; they can't be beaten.

Place rouge high and you highlight the eyes. The farther down the pigment goes, the wider and heavier the lower part of the face will appear.

Manipulating the lipstick calls for a magnifying mirror, a steady hand and clear-cut lines. Colors are more subdued than they have been, more like the natural crimson on lip flesh. One must employ the perceptive eye, the discriminating touch and, above everything else, the shade that is flattering. If make-up does not flatter, it is a flop, makes one's face look messy.

If you don't know how to select the right shades of powder, rouge and lipstick, have a facial; the operator will prove helpful.

Father Helps Care for Infant

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

MANY mothers write to complain that the husband takes no interest in the care and guidance of the children. Some add that the father will scold the mother when he thinks the children are not so well disciplined as he thinks they should be, especially if they don't obey him promptly.

Some fathers seem to believe that they made their major contribution when they selected a good mother for their children, even reserving the right to remind her when they believe she does not measure up to all their expectations.

The average father is not given the opportunity, while the child is a mere infant, to learn to care for him, although he could learn to do anything for his child but give him natural food, so it is not easy for him to assume responsibility to share equally with the mother in guidance of the child as he grows older.

The wise mother begins as early as possible to win the father's active participation in the care and upbringing of the child, and sets the stage so he will gain satisfaction from doing so.

The Right Idea.

The mother who wrote the following letter hit upon the right idea.

"Dea Dr. Myers: Recently in your column you wrote about fathers who did not cooperate with their wives in rearing their children. Perhaps my experience will help some young mother. I sincerely hope so, because fathers are very important in a child's life.

"When my first child was born, I naturally took it for granted that my husband would make as much fuss about her as I did, but he didn't. Something had to be done and done quickly, for I wanted my children to have the love and companionship of a good father.

"Instead of finding fault with my husband, I took inventory of myself and found that I was all wrapped up in my baby I forgot it was our baby I did everything for the child but breathe for her.

Next, I realized I did not pay any attention to my husband. He felt as though he was needed for financial reasons only, which is not true or right. So I began to pay some attention to our daddy. Then I asked his advice about the child, and took it. When my husband said no or yes to the child it remained so. Daddy was right. If he spanked her, I did not take her side.

Father Cooperates.

"My husband began to take an interest in our child; they became friends. He now cooperates beautifully where our children are concerned. I can talk over any problem I have with him, and he is more than willing to help. If he does or says something to the children I think is not right, I talk to him when we are alone. I do not tell him he is wrong, but suggest a better way of saying or doing the same thing.

"To most mothers, daddy does not have a very important place in the child's life. Some mothers would be surprised to hear how proud the children are of their daddy and how much they love him. I first realized this when someone asked our children which they liked better, mother or daddy. Neither child knew what to say, and both finally said they could not choose; they wanted both mother and daddy."

"The Authority on Authorities"

CHOOSE THE SMALL RISK

IF YOU MUST lead an unbid suit containing a guarded honor, not in sequence with other honors, because all of your suits are like that, you necessarily jeopardize the possibilities of some trick-taker and risk handing the declarer a trick on a silver platter, a trick he could never gain otherwise. But you have to take your choice between the evils. Other things being equal then, it is best to lead the suit containing the smallest honor. Just as a military or naval commander would rather risk the loss of an unimportant position than a vital one, so you should prefer to risk the sacrifice of a smaller honor to risking a larger one.

And that was all there was to the bidding of this deal, in a game of New York's Inter-Club league. William H. Walling, of the St. Nicholas club, was one of the declarers who got into that contract and made it, by taking advantage of a violation of leading principles by West The latter chose his heart 4, and thereafter all chance to beat the contract was gone.

Mr. Walling scored his heart J on that first trick, raked in the A and a bit later parked one of his two losing clubs on the heart K. Thus he lost only one trick in clubs, plus the two each he had to drop in trumps and spades—all told, just five

At tables where the correct lead of a club was made, the declarer had to lost two tricks in that suit, plus two each in spades and diamonds, so was down one. The reason a lead of the club 10, or an underlead of it, is usually less costly than a lead of, or away from, a Q is that a 10 is much less likely to be a potential trick-taker.

How to Make Bread at Home

By BETSY NEWMAN

Authorities tell us that if we housewives count the cost of our time and labor in the making of bread, it is not as economical to make it at home as it is to buy it. If we do not count our labor, however, it is cheaper to make bread than to get it at the bakery. I must confess that I prefer to just throw my work in and make bread at home. That way one certainly gets a tasty loaf full of grand foodstuffs.

* * *

White Bread

1 yeast cake 1 tsp. salt
1 pt. milk 1 Tbsp. sugar
1 Tbsp. butter 4-5 cups flour

Dissolve yeast in ½ cup lukewarm water to which you have added ½ teaspoon sugar. Scald milk, add butter, then cool to lukewarm and add dissolved yeast. Beat in part of sifted flour, adding more until you have a batter about as thick as cake batter. Beat, then add more flour until you have a dough thick enough to be handled. Turn out on well floured board and knead gently until it is smooth. Put in well floured pan, cover and let rise until double in size, about 3 hours. Grease 2 bread pans and warm slightly. Turn dough out on floured board, knead down, cut in half and knead each half lightly. Put in 2 bread pans, let rise, covered with clean cloth, for about an hour, or until dough is arched over top of pans, and bake in 350 degree oven for 45 minutes to 1 hour. You can brush the top of the leaves with melted butter if you like, but it is not necessary. If you want rolls, take half of dough, roll out about 1½ inches thick, let rise, brush top with melted butter and bake in hot oven For Parker-house rolls, roll dough to ½ inch thickness, put piece of butter on each round, fold over, let rise and bake.

* * *

Rye Bread.

7 cps. rye flour 2 Tbsps. fat
5½ cps. sifted all-purpose flour ½ cup lukewarm water
2 cakes com pressed yeast 2½ cps. milk or water
3 Tbsps. sugar
5 tsps. salt

Sift flours together. Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk and cool to lukewarm or you can use all water. Add sugar, salt and fat to it. Put in yeast, stirring it in well Add flour gradually, stirring to make a soft dough, turn out on lightly floured board, knead until smooth; return to greased bowl, brush over top with fat, cover and let rise until double in bulk—about 2 hours. Turn out on floured board again, divide into loaves and let stand for 5 minutes, then shape into long, sharply pointed loaves. Place on a greased shallow pan or one on which flour or conrmeal has been sprinkled. Rub fat lightly over tops of loaves, cover, and let rise until 1¾ its original size, from 45 minutes to 1 hour. Make three slashes across top of each loaf. Bake pound loaves in hot oven, 400 degrees, from 30 to 35 minutes. Put a pan of water in oven while bread is baking. Take loaves from pan when baked and glaze with mixture of egg white and water.

Athletics Take Undisputed Lead In City Cage League

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Jack Shiplet will play one more game for the Mansfield Tygers after all, and maybe two. But the president of the mid-year graduating class at the high school won't be on hand tonight for the decorating of the school gym for Wednesday night's class dance.

Shiplet will go to Sandusky tonight with the Tygers for the renewal of an old and bitter rivalry with the Blue Streaks. And while he'll have to stay home Friday night to make a commencement speech, he may arrange to rejoin the team Saturday night in Youngstown for the Ursuline game.

He's eligible for the entire week.

Sandusky's Streaks, defeated here last year 30-22, appear to have come up with a pretty fair ball club, although they have only one man who played against the Tygers last winter.

That player is Bud Silvani, presently leading the Streaks with 51 points posted on 23 buckets and five free tosses. Mike Dassallo has 41 points on 16 buckets and nine free tosses. Don Green has 30. Charles McMurray 27, Bob Babcock, the footballer, 20, and Jack Freitas 10

* * *

This doesn't seem to be a high-scoring aggregation, but the Streaks have been winning close ones, recently edging Lorain 31-30.

* * *

From here it wouldn't appear that the Tygers will need Shiplet on the first night of their week-end Youngstown jaunt when they tangle with Chaney.

Last Friday night Chaney was walloped by Campbell 32-22, and Saturday night Niles broke a 5-game losing streak at Chaney's expense 33-26.

In the Niles game, Hauser led the Chaney scoring with 9 points, Fabian got 7, and the rest of the scoring was distributed in batches of four points and less.

* * *

The Ursuline assignment Saturday night is another proposition. The Tygers will need all the strength they can assemble for this battle.

Ursuline is reported to have an outstanding team this winter, and last Friday night won handily from Struthers 34-24.

A week of light, if any, practice is scheduled for the Tygers. Because of the senior dance they won't be able to use the floor Wednesday but may loosen up on the John Simpson court. With two games just ahead they won't work hard Thursday.

But the full-year seniors on the team will get a workout on the Tyger gym floor Wednesday night. Coach Hoffman has given them permission to attend the dance.

* * *

"These seniors are looking ahead to their own graduation in the spring, and they want to see how it's done" Hoffman naively reports. Oh yeah? You mean they want to push their opponents around that basketball floor without an official's whistle to interrupt them. I hope they score.

Hornsby In Hall Of Fame

'Rajah' Now Texas Loop Chief as Career Ends.

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK —(AP)— The fabulous baseball career of Rogers Hornsby, the greatest right-handed hitter of all time, carried him into the hall of fame today.

The "Rajah," who performed for five different clubs and managed four of them in a 23-year span in the majors, who batted over .400 in three seasons and twice was named the most valuable player in the National league, who earned perhaps half a million dollars from baseball and lost most of it, received 182 votes out of 233 cast by baseball writers.

As a result a bronze plaque, bearing his dimple-cheeked likeness, will soon be placed alongside those of baseball's other immortals — Cobb, Wagner, Ruth, Mathewson and the rest — in the little shrine at Cooperstown, N. Y.

Hornsby, who will be 46 in April, now is the general manager and bench pilot of Fort Worth in the Texas league. He is a jovial, grey-haired minor league executive. But in days that a vast majority of the baseball fans can still remember he was a bright comet shooting an unpredictable course across sport's horizon.

He broke into the National league with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1915 as a shortstop. Later he played every position in the infield, tried the outfield, and moved to the New York Giants, to the Boston Braves, to the Chicago Cubs, to the Cardinals again and finally to the St. Louis Browns. He managed the Cards, Braves, Cubs and Browns, reaching a salary peak of $40,000 a year with the Cubs.

He led the National league in batting for seven years, six of them in succession for the Cardinals from 1920 to 25, inclusive. He batted .401 in 1922, in 1924 reached .424, the modern record for both major league, and in 1925 followed up with .403.

He also led the league in 1928 with .387 for the Braves and was voted the most valuable player in 1925 with the Cards and 1929 while with the Cubs.

Hornsby had no faults on the playing field, but the magnates found some with him off the diamond.

Bucks Win 2nd Loop Tilt

Elementary School Cage Loop Ladder Unchanged.

(By Associated Press)

Battered from pillar to post in early stages of the Big Ten cage race, Ohio State's reshuffled Buckeyes appeared today to have hit the victory trail in earnest.

The Bucks downed Northwestern 51-41 in Columbus coliseu last night for their second straight western conference win in five games, after starting the same combination which pulled the Iowa game out of the fire in the second half last Saturday.

Sparked by Max Gecowetz' 16 points, the Bucks grabbed an early lead and never were headed. Ohio State led 29-20 at the half.

Starters besides Gecowetz at guard, were Freddie Miller, who snagged 13 points, and Bud Wise, both forwards; Jack Wilce at center, and Capt. Jack Graf, guard.

In two Ohio conference tilts, Toledo defeated Kent State, 54-43 at Kent and Mount Union trounced Marietta at 60-37 at Alliance.

Bob Gerber, Toledo center, accounted for 30 of his team's points as the Rockets chalked up their third loop victory and their 13th win in 14 starts this season.

The touring Mexico City "Y" team, delayed by an accident at Indianapolis, arrived too late to play a game scheduled with Rio Grande college.

Bellville Tries New Cage Club On Rams

Whether or not the new Bellville Blue Jay cage team can stand up under pressure or not will be tested tonight when the Madison Rams make their appearance on the Bellville floor in a non league game.

After losing every game since the season opened Bellville last Friday put a reshuffled club of freshmen and reserves on the floor and downed Union, 41-14.

The Rams have won all of their games except last week's tilt with Butler and a tilt with Crestline.

Other Mansfield area game tonight will match Plymouth and Greenwich in a Twin Valley league game.

Wadsworth Beats Tyger Grapplers

Mansfield high wrestlers yesterday lost an 8-32 decision to Wadsworth, last year's district champions, in a match at senior high gym.

Two Tyger grapplers, Justin Selfer, 122, and Bob Sawhill, 155, won decisions. Other Mansfield wrestlers were: Schacherer, 105, Eisaman, 115, Berry 130, Kennedy 135, Cavin 140, Dallahan, 145, Timmons, 165, and Sprecher 185.

Other matches on Mansfield's home schedule are: Cuyahoga Falls, Jan. 27, 7:30 p. m.; Akron East, Jan. 30 3 p. m., Wadsworth, Feb. 16, 7:30 p. m.

Hall Resigns As Butler Coach

MERRILL HALL

Merrill Hall, brother of Columbus wrestler, Stacy Hall, is preparing to give up the coaching duties at Butler high school, leaving the Bulldogs in the same position in which he found them when he took over nearly a year ago—leading the Richland county cage race. Last spring Hall piloted Butler to the county league and county tournament titles, and took the Bulldogs to the semi-finals of the class B tourney at Bascom. He announced today he would remain at Butler until a successor is named.

Matthes Takes Second Place

Breaks Optimist Tie In Club Loop Race.

Matthes Clothes scored a 3-0 victory over Commercial Managers last night at Colony alleys to roll into second place in the Club league standings, breaking a tie with Optimists, who defeated Liederkranz 2-1.

Thull rolled high total for the league with 606, while Moore had 602. Stauffer turned in high game of 222. League-leading American Legion made a clean sweep of team scoring honors with a 962 game and 2771 total.

MASSILLON MENTOR PLANS ENLISTMENT

MASSILLON —(U.P.)— Two of Ohio's most remunerative high school coaching jobs were open today after William (Bud) Houghton, head football and basketball tutor at Massillon's Washington High, applied for enlistment in the navy's physical education division.

The head gridiron coaching position at nearby Canton McKinley High school, largest in the state in size of enrollment, was vacated a few weeks ago by the resignation of Floyd B. Schwartzwalder to enter military service.

Last Quarter Rally Defeats Blue Goose

City News Wins Over Power Club, Westinghouse Defeats Yuncker's

ATHLETIC SUPPLIES last night gained undisputed possession of first place in the second-half race of the City "A" basketball league with a 32-23 victory over Blue Goose Sohioans at Senior high school gym.

The undefeated Athletics needed a torrid fourth quarter rally to subdue the battling Sohioans, and Bruce McGinty, star of last year's Tyger quintet, supplied the punch for the game deciding drive.

The Supplies got away to an 8-0 lead in the first period, but Blue Goose came charging back to gain a 12-11 lead at half-time. The third stanza saw the lead change hands five times, and the period ended with the teams deadlocked at 19-19.

* * *

Then McGinty got hot and the ball game was in the bag. McGinty, with 10 points last night, took over the league scoring lead from Howard Poole. Bob Bogantz led Blue Goose with eight.

* * *

A third period rally started City News on the way to a 32-16 victory over Ohio Public Service. A slow, and rough first quarter ended with the score tied at 4-4, and the second period found the Power club leading 10-8.

Big Bill Martin racked up six points in the third heat to pace the Newmen's rally, the quarter ending with City News holding a 21-12 edge.

After Oswalt sank a long shot to start the fourth quarter, City News chalked up 11 straight points before the Power company tallied again on a pair of free tosses.

Martin led the winners with 14 points, while Burton tallied 10 for O. P. S.

Yuncker Sports tossed a scare into the camp of the first-half champion Westinghouse club, getting away to a 6-0 lead, and holding a 7-4 margin at the quarter.

Three long shots by Gene Rudolph started the champs rolling in the second period, and they were leading at the half 12-8. A rough third period saw Westinghouse increase its margin to 20-11, and they continued the pace in the final period for a 34-20 victory.

Rudolph's eight points set the pace for Westinghouse, and Bob Boyd led the Sports with six.

CHAPTER XIII

"Greg has never been what you might call—dependable. No one knows that better than I. He indulges in his little romances, of course, but eventually he comes back to me, and I" she laughed "—I forgive and forget. It has always been like that."

Then torn by sympathy she cried, "I'm sorry that you had to learn it the hard way, Linda, but it's true."

"I—I don't believe you," Linda whispered dully. "If you knew the things he said — the things he wrote in his letter! And he never mentioned you, except to say that you were a friend."

Diane nodded wisely. "I've come up against this sort of thing many times. Greg is like that—impulsive, headstrong, completely selfish. But when he's through—he's through. Why, when he came up here last night it was to take me to dinner, not because he knew you were here."

Suddenly Linda's face turned scarlet and her eyes grew hot with anger. "I don't believe you," she cried. "This is a trick! A neatly-planned trick all your own!"

"But it isn't, Linda. Greg left this morning with a group of scientists for South America. He won't be back for six months Does that look like a trick to you?"

Linda ignored her, rushing on heedlessly, blindly. "You love Greg and you despise me because Greg loves me. You want to turn him against me, but you can't, and I'll tell him the truth. I'll tell him everything you've said!"

"Oh, Linda, why don't you face facts?" Diane cried despairingly. "I've told you everything. Ask Mary Baridon if you distrust me. or ask Brenda, or — yes, Steve Baridon, can tell you. Everyone knows."

"Everyone knows?" Linda was crushed. "Everyone knows Greg Hollister is a philanderer; that he swept a little girl from the sticks right off her feet?"

She laughed mockingly. "What a joke that must be among your sophisticated friends Think of it! Greg, your fiance, making a play for a visitor in your own home. A country girl you pretended to befriend. You knew that he had been out with me, and you didn't say a word. I suppose it amused you to see him making a fool of me—ruining my entire life—"

Linda's voice broke and she glanced down at her dress. "To think that I accepted your hospitality! Even the dress I'm wearing belongs to you!" Roughly she seized the fragile tulle between her fingers.

"This is what I think of you and your hospitality," she sneered, and before the horror-stricken Diane could intervene she was ripping and crushing the beautiful gown to shreds. Then she stamped defiantly on the tattered remains.

"Now," she said grimly, "get out of here. Get out." She pushed Diane from the room, and then closed and locked the door.

Diane was speechless with amazement. Surely this girl so beside herself with frustration, so hurt and bewildered, was not soft-spoken, gentle Linda Phillips. Diane pounded on the bedroom door, pleading with the girl to admit her, but only silence answered her entreaties. Then, when Diane thought she could stand that grim silence no longer, the door was flung open and Linda emerged, clad in her hat and coat. Her face was pale.

"Linda!" Diane clutched the girl's arm, but Linda jerked away. "Where are you going?" And, again, Linda, tell me!"

Silence met her pleading, Diane cried out again as Linda moved toward the door, leading to the corridor, "You have no money. No friends here! Linda—where will you go?"

"Does it matter?" She had reached the door and jerked it open. "Does anything matter now? You've had your amusement. Your friends can chuckle over this all winter."

Thre was a final harsh sob, a choked, "Does anything matter . . . now?" Then the door closed.

Linda Phillips was gone!

How long Diane stood staring across the room she would never know. She was conscious only that Linda had been hurt — so badly hurt that anything was possible now. Anything!

Suddenly there was a rap at the door, and she sprang to answer it, crying hopefully, "Linda."

But it was Stephen Baridon who stood on the threshold. His expression changed from one of polite boredom to quick concern at the stark terror written on Diane's face.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

Diane cried, pathetically:

"It's Linda. She's gone."

"Gone? Where?"

"I don't know. I wish I did. I told her about Greg and me. At first she didn't believe me, and then she ran away."

"Maybe she'll cool off and come back," Steve suggested in a vain attempted to soothe her obviously over-wrought nerves.

"You don't know Linda as I do." The artist was sobbing—hysterically now. "She's never been like this before. Oh, Steve—I'm afraid!" She clutched his arm with trembling fingers. "If you had seen her face—the dying look in her eyes, as though she didn't care what happened to her any more . . ."

"But where could she go?" Steve was plainly worried.

"I don't know, I tell you. She doesn't know a soul in Chicago, and she didn't have any money." A new thought struck her. "She didn't even take a bag with her, just ran out into the night—"

Diane stopped short, for Steve had dashed toward the door.

"Wh—where are you going?" she asked, pitifully.

Steve's words left her trembling with a new and unnamed fear.

"To find Linda Phillips," he said as he raced down the corridor "Before it's too late."

Meanwhile, a slim, lonely girl was walking rapidly down a rain-washed street. Tears had taken their toll of her beauty. Her unseeing eyes were swollen and red.

A laughing couple bumped into her, but Linda did not hear their apologies. A cold wind swept around a corner, chilling her to the bone, yet she made no pretense of drawing her coat closer in protection against the freezing weather.

Dazed, numb, Linda Phillips could not cry, could not rage. Over and over in her mind hammered the name "Greg . . . Greg . . ." and her lips formed it silently.

She did not hear swift footsteps behind her until a man said sharply, "Linda!" As his hand clutched her arm painfully and he swung her around to face him, Steve Baridon exclaimed, "Thank God!"

Linda faced him defiantly, her head thrown back, her eyes blind to his expression of relief. "Let me go," she ordered, and when he made no effort to release her she repeated, "Let me go!" Her voice rose hysterically and she tugged vainly to free herself.

"You silly little fool!" Steve's voice was sharp. "Do you think I'm going to let you run away again?" He signalled a passing cab and propelled her into it. Then, when they were settled and the driver had been ordered to "drive around," Steve said:

"Now, what is this all about? Diane is half crazy with worry."

For a moment Linda sat rigid beside him, and then, suddenly, she collapsed, sobbing in his arms.

It was easier after the deluge of tears to tell her sympathetic listener the entire story. Linda spared no detail in describing her first meeting with Greg; his visit to Prairievale, and her hasty decision to leave the town. Steve listened attentively, nodding at each new revelation until the sobbing girl reached the phase dealing with Diane. Then he intervened.

"You mustn't misjudge Diane's motive," he said. "She is blameless."

He was unprepared for the bitterness in Linda's voice as she said, "I never want to hear her name nor see her face again. I trusted her completely, and all the time—all the time she knew that Greg—that—"

Linda wept again, and Steve Baridon said hastily, "There's another thing I want to say, Linda. I came to apologize for my behavior last night. I acted like a fool, I know, but I'm afraid it's because the wedding champagne was too potent. I couldn't take it."

"It doesn't matter," she said. "Nothing matters . . . now."

Seeing tears welling in her eyes, Steve said hastily, "But what were you planning to do? Where were you going?"

"There's an old saying," she said and smiled mirthlessly. "There's always the river. Only in my case—there's a lake."

For a moment Steve stared at her. Then, with a hollow laugh, he said, "I thought about that myself—last night. I even went so far as to walk down a pier, and then I changed my mind about a lot of things."

He paused to light his pipe, and by the flare of the match Linda could see the haggard lines around his mouth; the trembling of his hands.

"You mean—Brenda?"

Steve shrugged. "It's always been Brenda—ever since I was a freshman in college and she came to our frosh dance. Everyone took it for granted that someday—well, you know the rest."

"But what made you change your mind, about the lake, I mean?" she persisted

"While I was standing there, looking down into the muddy water," he mused, "it dawned on me that that was a coward's way out and that I must have been put on earth for some good purpose. I decided it was up to me to find out why I was here. One-half of my life ended when Brenda married Jerry Coleman, but I have my work if that will make an impression on the world, so much the better."

"You mean—your book?"

When he nodded she said curiously, "What is it like?" Her troubles were forgotten as she listened to his splendid, deep-toned voice.

"I'm writing a novel about horses. About one horse in particular, named Rusty."

He turned sidewise so that he could see her face. "You spoke of knowing my sister Mary. Did she tell you about Hillsacres?"

"No. Nothing."

"Hillsacres is our farm," he said, "located down in southern Illinois. That's about all we had left after the crash, a farmhouse and forty acres all in pasture. That's where Dad raises his thoroughbred horses."

"It sounds . . . grand," Linda murmured because there was a wealth of pride in the man's voice.

"It is grand. The house is old and steeped in tradition. It has been handed down from father to son for nearly a hundred years."

"I'm going down there," he went on, "to bury myself for the winter and try to finish my book. And then—" he broke off suddenly, conscious that Linda was strangely silent.

"What about you?" he asked.

"All right," she agreed listlessly, "what about me?"

"Why don't you go back home, kid?" he said gruffly. "People will soon forget about this. You know the old saying about time healing all wounds."

Linda laughed grimly. "You don't know Prairievale."

"Then tell everyone you changed your mind, decided to stay at home. That's a woman's privilege."

She shook her head. "Everyone would know the truth. You see," her face was scarlet, "I gave up a good secretarial position. I—I talked a lot, and," her voice dropped to a whisper. "I was—warned that I was making a mistake I'd live to regret, and I—I laughed."

Again she shook her head, this time more firmly. "I can never go back. Not—not alone."

There was silence for a long moment before Steve said thoughtfully, "I could certainly use a good stenographer down at the farm to handle my dictation and look after things for me. I can't pay much, but the house is comfortable, and—"

"I'm afraid that would cause too much scandal," Linda interrupted, "and there are others to consider in spite of our blighted lives. There's your father, my parents, and—Mary." She touched his hand timidly. "Thank you, anyway. You've been very kind to me, but I'm afraid it's no use."

Steve had lapsed into silence, puffing thoughtfully on his pipe, and Linda began to relax beside this slow-spoken person. The cold rain beat a steady tatoo on the top of the cab and she was strangely sleepy. Then, suddenly, Steve Baridon spoke again and his words were like a bombshell.

"Have you an ounce of sporting blood?" he demanded. When Linda nodded, confused by his enthusiasm, he went on rapidly:

Why Pay More?

Six monthly instalments of $8.93 each, total of $53.58, repay a $50 loan in full. Cost thus only $3.58; only 3/4 of highest lawful charge. Borrow $20 to $500 on furniture, car or note. Just say how much you need and how you want to repay. No endorsers needed. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. 24 hour service.

Payments include charges at Household's rate of 2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $300 and 1/2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $300. Compare loan rates before you borrow anywhere!

TREE PLANTER

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—A good-sized forest can be planted with the Agriculture Department's new tree-planting machine in one day.

Forestry Service experts, who have been experimenting with the tractor-drawn device for three years, say it will plant 8,000 trees and shrubs in an eight-hour day.

The machine is similar to a vegetable plant setter, except that it is on a larger scale.

RAIL BUYING SETS PACE ON STOCK MARKET

Santa Fe Registers New Top For Past Year; Penney Hits New Low.

NEW YORK — Further buying of rails again gave today's stock market a moderate recovery tinge. Santa Fe registered a new top for the past year. Support was given N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Louisville & Nashville, U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, and Eastman Kodak.

J. C. Penney was off more than a point at a new bottom for a year or longer. Hesitant were Union Carbide, Caterpillar Tractor, Phelps Dodge and Boeing.

Market students saw a cheering indicator in the survey of the federal reserve bank of New York which disclosed department store sales in the metropolis and Brooklyn last week topped the comparable period a year ago by 39 per cent. The rise was the sharpest of the year to date and outstripped the 33 per cent upturn recorded in the peak week of Christmas spending.
